Stronger Bonds Aim —John D.

PARIS (CP)—Canadian Prime Minister Diefenbaker arrived here today for next week's NATO summit conference and said he expects the meeting to "strengthen the bonds of the Allies."

He told airport reporters, "I think there will be a redeclaration of principles in NATO's cultural, political, economic and military fields. Otherwise freedom will not survive."

Diefenbaker, who flew here from Ottawa for his first NATO conference, said he had an excellent trip, adding "I slept all the way."

FLEMING DUE

With External Affairs Minister Smith and Gen. Charles Foulkes, chairman of the Canadian chiefs of staff, already in Paris, the Canadian delegation will be completed Monday with the arrival of Finance Minister Donald Fleming, who delayed his departure to steer his tax legislation through the Commons.

Diefenbaker was met by Smith, Jean Desy, Canadian ambassador to France; L. D. Wilgress, Canada's representative to NATO, and George Drew, Canadian high commissioner in London.

Diefenbaker said this is the first time he has been in France since becoming prime minister and he considers it a privilege to be back in "this beautiful country, this heroic country, this culture country—one of our two motherlands."

RELATIONS STRONGER

Diefenbaker drove straight to the Canadian ambassador's residence. Canadian officials said he will confer Sunday with Prime Minister Macmillan.

Speaking before microphones at the airport, the Canadian leader said:

"I am happy to acknowledge the warm reception today from the representatives of the Republic of France and to assure them that our relations will ever continue to be stronger as the years go by."

The prime minister was accompanied on the RCAF C-54 flight from the Canadian capital by Defence Minister G. R. Pearkes. His external affairs minister arrived Friday.

Under State Control

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—The Indonesian news agency Antara said today authoritative quarters reported almost all Dutch businesses in Indonesia now are under state control.

'BE PREPARED' WARNS 'ROCKY'

MONTREAL (CP)—The man who commanded Canada's forces in Korea says North America could be the battleground for a third world war, "if the balloon goes up."

Maj.-Gen. J. M. "Rocky" Rockingham told a press conference Friday night "we must be prepared for anything."

He takes over today as general officer commanding Quebec army command, succeeding Maj.-Gen. J. P. E. Bernatchez.

Early Merger Action Sought by Reeve Ash

Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash today called for a meeting next month between the municipality and the city to work out a common approach before requesting the provincial government to set up a royal commission on amalgamation.

It is his hope and desire that a meeting will take place early in the new year between Mayor Percy Scurrell and myself along with representatives of both councils to discuss ways and means of taking immediate action in approaching the government," Reeve Ash, re-elected to a two-year term Thursday, said.

"We should ask the provincial government's co-operation to inaugurate an investigation as soon as possible that would result in a plan being formulated which could be placed before the ratepayers."

Reeve Ash said many problems were awaiting solution in Saanich that could not be tackled until the amalgamation question was settled.

"We can't make these policy decisions until the people tell us what they want done about amalgamation."

Pearson Tells Of Norway Visit

Lester B. Pearson, who made an historic address on world peace in Oslo, Norway, Wednesday after receiving the Nobel Peace Prize, writes today on Page 4 an entertaining article on his experiences in the Scandinavian country and its associations with Canada.

OKAY BUT AGED

Words Slurred By Eisenhower

PARIS (UP)—President Eisenhower stumbled at least twice during his arrival speech today and observers who last saw him here five years ago commented openly at the way he has aged.

But the slurring of several words and a more moderate than usual walking pace were the only signs that might have reflected the United States president's recent illness—an illness that almost prevented his attendance at next week's crucial meeting of NATO countries.

Eisenhower kept his hat on and donned glasses to read his speech. But, aside from slight stumbling over occasional words, there was nothing that indicated a sick man. His voice was firm, vigorous and resonant and he read rapidly and without hesitation.

Dave Beck Convicted

SEATTLE (AP)—Dave Beck, millionaire president of the teamsters, was convicted today by a jury of seven men and five housewives of stealing $1,900 from the sale of a union-owned automobile. He was charged with grand larceny.

Minister 'Unaware'

OTTAWA (BUP)—Health Minister J. W. Monteith said today that he was "unaware" that old age pensioners in British Columbia had not yet received their $9 increase in their old age pension checks at the end of November.

Nine Killed as Blast Rips Scottish Mine

KELTY, Scotland (AP)—An underground explosion today at the Lindsay Colliery about 15 miles north of Edinburgh killed nine men and injured seven others.

Several of the injured miners were able to walk unaided out of the pit. Rescue workers reported that the men who were killed were working at the coal face.

Cause of the explosion was not known.

It was the third pit disaster in Britain within a month. Seventeen miners were killed Nov. 20 in an explosion at a coal mine in Muirkirk, Scotland. A week later, another explosion occurred at a coal mine in Maryport, England, killing two men.

Penalty Goal Gives Leaders Soccer Win

LONDON (Reuters)—Wolverhampton Wanderers today stretched their lead in the First Division of the English Soccer League to six points with a come-from-behind 4-3 victory over lowly Sheffield Wednesday.

A penalty goal by Edwin Clamp late in the game broke a 3-3 tie and gave the Wanderers their 10th victory in 11 home games this season. The other home game ended in a draw.

Second-place West Bromwich Albion had its chances of overtaking Wolverhampton dimmed when it was whipped 5-1 by Luton Town. Defending champion Manchester United also bowed 1-0 to Chelsea.

Missile Fund Shortage Hit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Maj.-Gen. John B. Medaris testified today lack of funds held up U.S. Army development of a 1,500-mile missile. And he said that even now the United States is doing virtually no work on a rocket engine as powerful as Russia already has perfected.

Medaris also said:

1. Army scientists offered two years ago to put up an earth satellite but their offer was rejected.

2. The army has solved in two tests the "re-entry problem" of bringing missile nose cones back to earth through atmospheric friction. Only one test had been disclosed heretofore.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Almighty God, Thou strong rock of our defence, we lean trustingly upon Thine arms of love and depend on Thee for courage to face the troubles of these days. We fear no danger when Thou art by our side. Dark shadows lose their menace when Thou dost lead the way. Lead on O King eternal. We follow without fear; in Christ's name. Amen.

Summit Talks Begin Monday

PARIS (CP)—President Eisenhower declared today that the NATO alliance can meet the "despotic and continuing threat" of Soviet Russia.

Arriving for the summit NATO meeting opening Monday, he told a thin airport crowd of 200 persons the West must meet Russia's space-age challenge or lose its freedom.

After a welcome to France from President Rene Coty and Premier Felix Gaillard, Eisenhower made the keynote statement of his Paris mission. Speaking on the cold, windswept Orly Field, Eisenhower said:

"Today we live in one of those periods of test not only for France but all of France's friends and allies, my country among them. It is for us, together, to determine whether men shall continue to live in freedom and in dignity or whether they are to become mere vassals of an all-powerful state."

The answer to this challenge, he said, is the development of a "true partnership" in "spiritual, military and economic strength."

MAC ARRIVES FOR PARLEY

PARIS (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan arrived by night ferry train from London today and said that the NATO summit conference will increase "the faith and power" of the Allies in the modern world.

The statement was Eisenhower's first public speech since his slight stroke Nov. 25.

In his prepared speech, Eisenhower expressed confidence that the 15-nation alliance could meet the "despotic and continuing threat from the East" in an effective manner.

5,000 French Police on Guard

He predicted that they would not only strengthen their protective shield of NATO military forces but also reinforce other aspects of the coalition as well.

An estimated 5,000 French police turned out to guard Eisenhower during his arrival.

The police guarded the airport and the crowd-lined route to the U.S. embassy where Eisenhower will stay until his return home next Thursday.

"The heads of NATO are meeting in this beautiful Paris to analyze the challenge we now face," Eisenhower said. "We shall meet it effectively. We shall meet it in unity."

"We all know that fear alone has neither the power nor the nobility to fulfill the ultimate destiny of the Atlantic community. Therefore, we shall be striving not only to strengthen the NATO shield, but we shall also address ourselves to other aspects of our alliance. We are all confident that in the supreme strength of balanced unity we can move together towards security and peace.

"In these days of trial, it is good not only to think gallantly, but to think gallantly, to think in faith."

Setting foot on French soil for the first time since he gave up the post of supreme allied commander of allied forces in Europe five years ago, the president said he will be thinking during the NATO deliberations next week of France's "greatest words—liberty, equality and brotherhood."

"Those three words could fittingly be emblazoned on the shield of NATO. It is the liberty of all of us that NATO is pledged to defend. It is a pledge made among equals. It is a pledge made in the spirit of that true brotherhood which sealed an alliance unique in history. That alliance forever seeks the security of each of its nations and of the free world. Above all, it seeks peace with justice and with honor."

Atomic Missiles for Allies

Eisenhower arrived with an offer of atomic missiles for allied armies and an appeal for greater unity in the North Atlantic coalition.

He faces trouble on both issues.

The trip to Europe is Eisenhower's second as president. But in contrast with his 1955 mission to negotiate with Russia, this time he will seek to rally the Western Alliance against Russia's bid for dominance in the dawn era of pushbutton weapons.

Eisenhower was scheduled to begin his talks this afternoon with French Premier Felix Gaillard at the U.S. Embassy. Gaillard wants U.S. and British support for France's position in North Africa.

France and the other European countries would like a decisive voice in the control of any U.S. nuclear weapons to be stockpiled in Europe.

The United States has drafted nine proposals for NATO action which in broad outline at least already have been made known to the other 14 member nations. Chief among them are:

1. The United States is prepared to stockpile nuclear warheads for intermediate range 1,500-mile missiles in European countries, under the command of the U.S. commander in Europe, Gen. Lauris Norstad, who also is supreme commander of NATO forces.

2. NATO should have a science office headed by a scientific adviser to Secretary-General Paul-Henri Spaak. A committee should be created on the pooling of scientific information.

3. More emphasis should be placed on producing weapons of advanced design and promoting weapons standardization.

WALL COLLAPSES ON FANS AT SOCCER GAME; 1 KILLED

GLASGOW, Scotland (UP)—An infield wall collapsed today on nearly 100 football fans watching a professional soccer game in Shawfield Park Stadium and dozens were hurt, many of them children.

First police reports said one child was killed and between 80 and 100 persons were injured, about 50 of them children. The wall surrounding the field collapsed on them in the midst of play.

Ambulances shuttled the injured to nearby hospitals.

The game, between the Scottish First-Division teams of Clyde and Celtic, was held up for 20 minutes.

WHAT'S YOUR OPINION?

By JOHN MIKA and IRVING STRICKLAND

Question: "Vancouver voters endorsed Sunday sport by a two-to-one margin. Do you favor Sunday sport, with paid admissions to events, for Victoria?"

Chuck Watson, 8 Camden: "Why not? It's the only day that most people have time to take in any sports. I think Vancouver took an excellent step in voting that way and I hope we get a chance to do the same very soon."

Watson

Marne Andre, 620 Rupert: "I certainly don't disagree with the Vancouver voters. They did the right thing so far as I'm concerned, and it's about time we had it here. After all, they've had sports on Sunday in the United States for years and I don't see why we shouldn't have it, too. It hasn't done any harm there; people still go to church."

Donald McLellan, 1303 Gladstone: "Definitely we should have the same thing. It would give people something to do on Sunday afternoons beside just sitting at home and watching television. We need entertainment and relaxation on a day off. I'm glad to see the Vancouver people are out to get Sunday sports and I think it's about time we had it, too."

Novelist Sack

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—Novelist Nicholas Monsarrat, author of "The Cruel Sea," left Australia for Canada today to undergo a minor operation.

McLellan

Ryall

Susanne Ryall, McBride, B.C.: "I think everyone should be able to take in a ball game on Sundays. There certainly doesn't seem much to do in Victoria on about the only day of the week when people have the time to watch a game."

Bill Blandford, YMCA: "I'm all for an open Sunday—sports, entertainment and cocktail bars. It's too dead on Sundays the way it is now. There just isn't any way to enjoy yourself and I think a fellow has the right to some pleasure after working all through the week."

Blandford

Dafziel

Beverly Dafziel, Vancouver: "Good for Vancouver. If teams can play sports now without taking admissions, then why can't they do the same thing when tickets are sold? I don't see these arguments that sports are degrading just because it's Sunday. Now that I'm here, I'd like to see Victoria do the same as Vancouver."

NEW YORK (AP)—An apparent rift has developed among officials of the Motormen's Benevolent Association as its strike against the city subway system extended.

The city's subways are running about 70 per cent of normal with the aid of some non-striking motormen, newly-trained workers and supervisory personnel.

A bus strike deadline set for Sunday has been extended to Jan. 1.

Early today an MBA official said he found a hidden microphone in the union's office. Frank Zelano, executive secretary and acting union head, immediately called telephone company workers and police, who started an investigation.

Zelano found the microphone taped to the underside of a radiator—after telling a reporter he feared there was a spy in the MBA ranks.

After discovering the device, Zelano said: "I am stunned that any organization would stoop to this sort of underhanded labor spying. In doing this they have served our cause."

He did not elaborate. The embattled MBA says it has appealed to Governor Averell Harriman to intervene and bring about a settlement.

Signs of union dissension appeared Friday following a meeting between Mayor Robert F. Wagner and MBA lawyer Louis Waldman.

Wagner turned down the six-point union formula for ending the strike, saying he would not discuss strike issues until the motormen go back to work.

MESSAGE FROM JAIL

Later Moss K. Schenck, who has acted as special counsel for the union, emerged from a visit with four jailed MBA heads and displayed a note purportedly written by one of them, Augustine Johnson, which read:

"I fully believe that Mr. Waldman is with the mayor and is selling us out. He is against us four in jail. This I know. Don't settle a thing until we are out. We expect to be out Wednesday at 4 p.m. Hold out. We will win."

The four men, including MBA president Theodore Loos, are serving 10-day contempt sentences for calling a strike last Monday. They had been under suspended sentence since a one-day motormen's strike last year.

Aged Men's Home Enjoys Smoker Given by Veterans

Residents at Mountain View Home, city's home for aged and infirm men, were treated to a concert party Thursday night by Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Association. Refreshments and cigarettes were distributed. Present for the occasion were association president Horace Heal and entertainment committee chairman Dave Pye.

CHOICE ESTATE ON MARS PUT ASIDE FOR NASSER

TOKYO (Reuters)—A spokesman for the Japanese Astronautical Society said today President Nasser of Egypt had inquired about an estate on Mars through the Japan External Recovery Organization's office in Cairo. Toraji Kishida, whose society has been selling land on Mars, said the deed to a choice lot of land of about 80 acres on Mars was posted today to the Egyptian leader.

87 Died of Fumes Paris Probe Told

PARIS (Reuters)—A special commission has reported that 87 Moslems died of asphyxiation in Algeria while being held in wine stores for questioning by French security forces, the government disclosed Friday night.

The government made public a report by the commission set up to investigate alleged excesses by security forces in the three-year Algerian war.

The report cited three cases this year where suspected insurgents were imprisoned in wine stores and several died of carbonic acid gas poisoning. Fifty died in one store, 21 in another, and 16 in a third, the report said.

The report said there had been serious cases of torture but the commission feels "this was not a generalized system but acts committed sporadically by individuals despite orders forbidding them."

In one case, 100 Moslems arrested as suspected insurgents were locked in a wine store March 14 and "the next day 50 corpses were found."

Chilean Planes Shell U.S. Fishing Vessels

SANTIAGO, Chile (Reuters)—Two light bombers of the Chilean air force machine-gunned a fleet of American fishing vessels off the South American coast, reports reaching here said Friday night.

Lieutenant-Governor Plans Jan. 1 Reception in Armory

Lieut-Governor Frank Ross will hold his customary New Year's Day reception of local residents in the Bay Street Armory between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

The reception will be held there pending the re-building of Government House, destroyed by fire last March.

A statement issued by his staff reads:

"The lieutenant-governor is anxious that custom and tradition should be perpetuated and until the new Government House is available he has decided to hold the New Year's Day reception in the Bay Street Armory."

Mayor Percy Scourrah and members of his council will hold their usual New Year's reception at the City Hall, but the time has not yet been set.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele and his council will entertain at Esquimalt Municipal Hall from 2 to 4 p.m. New Year's Day.

Traditional New Year's receptions are planned by the various armed services and militia. Details to be announced later.

Reception of the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. in the officers' mess at Work Point Barracks.

Fifth Medium Battery will receive in the officers' mess at Bay Street Armory from 9 to 10 a.m. Canadian Scottish Regiment is planning a New Year's reception at the Armory.

More playing cards are made in Cincinnati, Ohio, than in any other place in the world.

Keeping Us Informed

LAST WEEK, WHILE FAILING to deliver his promised budget, Mr. Fleming gave Canadians an accounting of their current finances. Actually the nation knows every month, from a detailed statement, how much money the Federal Government has been collecting and spending.

But we get no such information from a Provincial Government which is always saying that it keeps the public informed. No one can pry the current financial facts out of Premier Bennett, the minister of finance. How much his Government is collecting and spending remains a dark secret, to be revealed once a year only in the provincial budget.

Why this secrecy? Why is it that we hear increasing rumors of a sharp drop in provincial tax collections? Why does Mr. Bennett issue a blanket denial of the rumors without giving us any facts? Where, in fact, do we stand?

The Government which "keeps you informed" will not answer these perfectly proper questions. It will not inform you on matters of importance. The public, apparently, has no right to ask questions about its own vital business.

It will be surprising, however, if the Government's tax collections have not fallen in the current fiscal year and this may account in part for Mr. Bennett's huge demands on the federal treasury.

Even if his income is lower than he expected last spring, Mr. Bennett should have nothing to worry about. He said in his last budget that he was amassing gigantic revenue surpluses with which he is reducing the provincial debt. If necessary he can reduce the debt at a slower pace and spend more of his revenues currently.

Of course Mr. Bennett is not really reducing the debt as fast as he claims, if at all. While the direct debt is falling, the Government's guarantee is being constantly written into borrowings by its various agencies. These guarantees actually constitute debt by any respectable system of bookkeeping and assuredly the people of British Columbia will pay the interest and repay the capital one way or another.

This fact does not affect the Government's immediate financial position and that position, according to Mr. Bennett, must be very lush indeed. British Columbia is probably collecting and spending on a per capita basis more than any province in Canadian history. Yet Mr. Bennett demands vast new revenues from the federal treasury without pausing to remark that this money must come from the same taxpayers who support the provincial treasury.

No wonder his cries for help at Ottawa do not provoke much sympathy there. If Mr. Bennett complains that his problems are not understood, that his Government's prosperity is exaggerated, he has only himself to blame. For he is always boasting of his high expenditures, his surpluses, his reduction of debt and he flatly refuses to tell us, except on budget day, where his treasury stands. Thus Social Credit "keeps you informed."

A Good Sport

THERE WILL BE WIDESPREAD sadness among members of Victoria's sports fraternity at the high-way death of Reg Patterson, former business manager of the Tyees baseball club.

Mr. Patterson, a native of Alberni, played baseball as a young man and carried his love of the game over into a professional career. He was highly thought of by the management of the New York Yankee chain, of which the Victoria club was a member, and was offered a position with the Yankees when baseball collapsed here. However, he preferred to stay in the country he loved and took up new work, though never losing his interest in baseball.

Possessor of a cheery smile and optimistic spirit, Reg Patterson's boyish enthusiasm for sports was high among his many likeable qualities. The Times joins sports fans everywhere in extending sincere sympathy to his wife and young son.

The Heavy Insurance Premium

A GRIM DOCUMENT KNOWN as the Galtier Report is receiving some publicity in the United States. It comprises the advice of a committee of experts on how to survive an atomic attack.

The grimness is of two kinds, immediate and prolonged. The report writes off, from the start, the chances of any persons caught within the bomb's immediate sphere of effect. There is no use in providing shelters for such people, the report says in short, because they wouldn't have a chance to get into them anyway.

The hope of survival for the nation lies in protecting survivors of the initial blast from succumbing to later radiation from fall-out. To achieve this the report proposes to construct a vast chain of survival dugouts at a cost of perhaps $20 billions. This sum, astronomical as it may seem, is only half of an earlier estimate by the U.S. national civil defence administrator for similar protection.

The question arises, is it worth it? Can uncontaminated food and water be provided for the thousands who would huddle in such shelters for an indeterminate time? Could civilized life be conducted when the survivors eventually emerged into a world of poisonous rubble?

Perhaps the contemplation of such extremities of disaster is in itself the best deterrent against such an emergency. No country, assessing such preparations and knowing they would be needed both by initial aggressor and victim, could fail to think twice before plunging the world into chaos. The cave age was prehistoric. We cannot risk having it restored.

Speechless

NEWSPAPERS STATE THAT Mr. James Sinclair, former cabinet minister and chief critic for the Liberals of Conservative Government financial policy, has lost his voice.

Because of that disability he was unable to join the discussion of Mr. Fleming's proposals.

Mr. Sinclair is probably not the only one stricken speechless. That very speechlessness could be eloquent.

As Our Readers See It

New Hi-Fi

I noticed, thanks to a recent story in The Times, that 75 per cent of the homes in Greater Victoria boast television sets. Electronics' manufacturers today are, no doubt, reaping rich rewards with TV reaching a new high in popularity.

At the same time, it would be interesting to see how many homes boast high fidelity sets. Hi-fi, like television, is also attaining greater popularity than ever before.

It is time, therefore, to do something to prevent the electronic manufacturers from fooling the public.

True hi-fi is wonderful. You can't blame anyone, therefore, for wishing to purchase a hi-fi set for the home.

Many of the sets being sold in radio stores today are not true hi-fi sets. Salesmen, if under pressure from the buyer, will acknowledge that many of them are "commercial high fidelity" machines.

That is, these so-called hi-fi sets have a cycle range from as low as 30 to a high of 16,000 cycles. True hi-fi will range from a low of 30 cycles to a high of at least 22,000. Some will go as high as 50,000 cycles.

Many of the sets—especially the combination variety—have the words "high fidelity" stamped plainly in view. And while they are a vast improvement over the ordinary radio, these are not true hi-fi sets.

It would seem that the public would be better protected if these sets were stamped "Commercial hi-fi" and not "high fidelity."

What Canadian Will Dare to Hurl the First Stone?

IT is not difficult, if you have a head for figures, to isolate the fundamental, physical facts behind the present crisis of the mind and spirit in the United States. What-

Hutchison

The American people are doing, and failing to do with their unequalled resources is not a mystery; it is merely a compilation of known and public figures. But the figures are so vast and complex that not one American in a hundred, we may be sure, ever bothers to sort them out. The same is true of Canada. Indeed, I would make a small bet on the proposition that not one Canadian in a hundred could cite even the size of the national budget, though it was printed on every front page last week.

If the specific facts are available and disregarded, most Americans would agree, after recent events, that the nation's available resources are not being wisely used, in exactly the right places. Most Canadians would agree that this country is doing no better. Most people in both countries would probably agree with Mr. Walter Lippmann when he explains the cause of relative Russian success and American failure in certain areas as follows:

"We must put first, I think, the enormous prosperity in which, as the politicians have put it to the voters, the private standard of life is paramount as against the public standard of life. I mean such necessities as defence, education, science, technology, the arts.

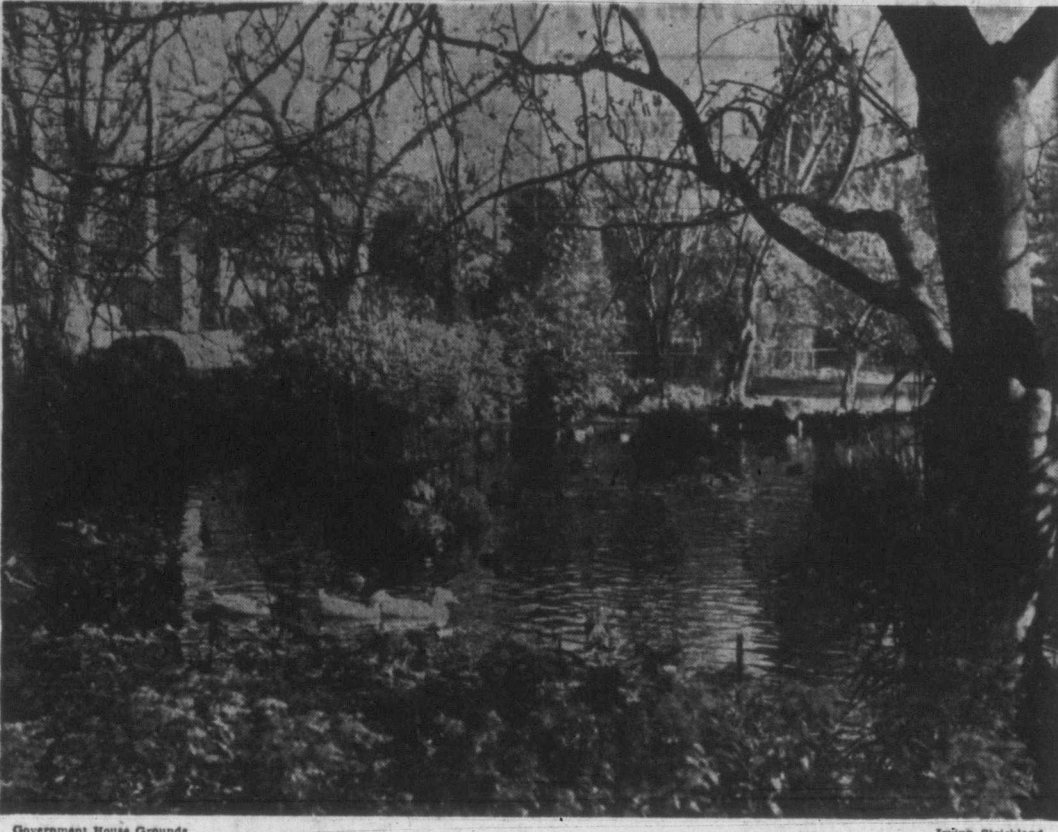

"Our people have been led to believe in the enormous fallacy that the highest purpose of the American social order is to multiply the enjoyment of consumer goods. As a result, our public institutions, particularly those having to do with education and research, have been, as compared with the growth of our population, scandalously starved."

ONE expects this sort of sober analysis from a social philosopher like Mr. Lippmann who began as one of Woodrow Wilson's bright young men at Versailles. It is more surprising and encouraging to hear the following from a case-hardened, highly sophisticated practical politician like Senator Styles Bridges:

"The time has clearly come to be less concerned about the depth of pile on the new broadloom rug or the height of the tail fin on the new car and to be more prepared to shed blood, sweat and tears if this country and the free world are to survive."

To document these abstract speculations a writer in The New York Times sets out some of the known facts. A sample or two from a long list will show what he means.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

THE United States spends $15 billions a year on education and exactly the same on liquor and tobacco. It spends $27 billions on automobiles and $3.7 billions on religious activities. It spends $2.4 billions on foreign aid and $3.2 billions on radios, television and phonographs. It spends $1.7 billions on jewelry, $600 millions on books and $500 millions on basic research.

I don't have the corresponding Canadian figures by me at the moment but they would not be much different proportionately and they are sufficient to appal men much less intelligent than Messrs. Lippmann and Bridges.

NOW, these figures are in themselves almost incomprehensible to the ordinary man. He does not know and hardly tries to find out the meaning of a billion dollars when he is trying to raise a hundred dollars to meet an installment on the new car.

Occasionally, however, the results of such figures appear in a sufficiently simple form to reach your mind or mine. They appeared a few days ago, for instance, when a certain American pocket burned up and, with its flames, illuminated the toppling power balance of the world.

There can be no doubt in any intelligent mind that the resources of the United States (and Canada) are being foolishly allocated, too much squandered on non-essentials and too little devoted to essentials. The only question is why this should happen.

It asks the writer in The New York Times, because the people of America are naturally soft, fat-headed and too incompetent to survive the competition of the Russians who allocate their resources in a different fashion? Or is it that a democratic system is inherently and by its nature incapable of a better allocation?

No, this writer answers, that is not the explanation. The explanation, he believes, is not that the American people put their comfort ahead of their security, their education and progress generally, but that they have not yet realized the actual facts of life in this era.

They have not realized the facts mainly because the politicians have combined to hide them, because it has become the fixed habit, the operating method and genial conspiracy of politics to promise the people more and more for less and less.

THAT is an American's indictment of his own society and politicians. Will any Canadian deny that indictment here after the events of the present year and the figures of the latest national budget? What Canadian will care to hurl the first stone across the border?

WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG

When Unwelcome Visitors Dropped in for Afternoon Tea

THE Quatsinos had probably never been a very numerous or important tribe but from ancient days they had earned a reputation for belligerence. They were a pugnacious and stiff-necked people who had for generations nursed a hatred—bred, no doubt, of fear—of the haughty and implacable Haidas from the Queen Charlottes.

Sivertz

When I first saw people of the Quatsinos many years ago they occupied a magnificent site, as so many Indian reservations do, on a point of land that jutted out into the sound a little more than half way between Quatsino village and Coal Harbour. The rancherie was built above a fine shingle beach through which a lovely clear brook flowed into the salt chuck. A few canoes were always lying pulled up on the beach and one seldom saw any sign of life except for the ubiquitous Indian dogs—slinking between weather-bleached cedar shacks.

They were still a surly and arrogant people. Indeed I was told that in the early days of the white settlement when Ed Evenson first built his home above what became the Canadian Pacific boat landing, and being a provident Norseman planted a garden, the Indians would come down and dig up his potatoes without so much as a "by your leave."

Evenson was a patient man and at first thought the poor Indians were destitute and added to their lot by giving them tea, of which they were inordinately fond, and perhaps a handful of Mrs. Evenson's home-baked cookies.

But it soon became evident that their depredations were simply calm, barefaced robberies so Evenson ordered them to get off his land and stay off, emphasizing his words with a loaded rifle.

The Indians left him in a sort of armed truce but told him first that it was not his land that it all belonged to the Indians and it was their right to take his vegetables just as clearly as it was their right to pick blackberries or salmon berries.

Not Welcome

The truce was still in effect when I first visited Quatsino aboard the old Ss. Maquinna, but it was made precarious by the evident hostility of the younger Indians. It was even more evident when anyone inadvertently landed on the reservation for any reason whatever. The young bucks would make the visitor very unwelcome indeed.

It was also their childlike habit to enter almost any house, particularly if they knew the husband was away at work, without knocking and sit firmly on a kitchen chair and demand tea. Many of the women were frightened and were only too glad to comply with the demands in order to get rid of their uninvited guests.

Spotless Kitchen

One day I was in Hazel Ildstad's charming cottage which nestled in a small clearing above a tiny sheltered horseshoe-shaped beach at the end of the trail from the boat landing. Her spotless kitchen sparkled and the late afternoon sun filtered through cheerful chintz curtains.

An alderwood fire burned in the stove and the kitchen was filled with the good smell of freshly baked cookies that stood cooling in row after row of warm, brown circles of crunchiness.

Coffee bubbled in the percolator and we were just ready to enjoy an afternoon snack when the door opened suddenly and in walked a wizened Indian and his squaw. There was no greeting and they plumped down on chairs, folded their hands and demanded tea.

Hazel poured them out cups of coffee and offered a plateful of cookies. The Indians took the coffee and then the old woman's gnarled claws seized a double-handful of cookies and whipped them out of sight into some hidden pocket under her voluminous dress.

The old couple were Mr. and Mrs. Monkey and the old man was some sort of sub-chief in the tribe.

When they had gulped the scalding hot coffee Mrs. Monkey wanted more cookies and again a big handful disappeared. Then she started on a tour of the kitchen, stroking Hazel's shining pots and pans and crooning over them as she might over an infant. When she saw the whistling kettle on the stove she went into a rhapsody of crooning and turning to Hazel said: "How much?"

Patiently Hazel explained the kettle was not for sale; Mrs. Monkey simply repeated: "How much?" The old girl dug under her skirt again and fished out some dirty dollar bills and proffered them with the endless query: "How much?"

Mail Order

It might have gone on for hours but Hazel remembered a mail order catalogue through which she had ordered the kettle and in it she showed Mrs. Monkey a picture of the article. Finally the Indian understood and fished out the required amount of money left it on a chair and walked out, looking over her shoulder at the shining kettle that was soon to be her own.

Mr. Monkey followed after scooping up a half-dozen cookies and I was glad to see the little episode come to such a peaceful end.

'It Was Not Easy to Give

Expression to My Feelings of Pride and Humility'

By HON. LESTER B. PEARSON. (Copyright 1957. All Rights Reserved.)

IT would be hard for me this week to write about anything else than the visit of my wife and myself to Oslo to receive the Nobel Peace Award. We left Ottawa last Saturday in foul weather, when a Scandinavian Airlines plane from New York to Oslo touched down at Uppsala to take us aboard.

It wasn't as easy as it sounds, because of the conditions, and we were three hours late getting away, with one stop for refuelling at Prestwick in Scotland and with a loss of six hours in time which throws one's sleeping time right off normal.

Pearson

We reached Oslo Sunday afternoon. It was already dark because at this time of the year there are only about four hours of daylight. There was quite a welcoming party at the airport with representatives of the Norwegian government, the Nobel committee, our Embassy and, of course, press, radio and television.

Canadians always feel quickly at home in Norway and for the best of all reasons: the country and the people and the manner of life are very much like our own.

Our party was no exception and this feeling, together with the friendly welcome we have been given, has contributed much to the pleasure of our visit. Outside the "old" commonwealth, no countries are closer basically to Canada than the Scandinavian. There are none with whom we work more easily and closely at international meetings.

That theme of close and friendly relationship has dominated the welcome we have received and I hope that our visit has done something to confirm it. With Norway the relationship has been especially close. People here will never forget "Little Norway" in Canada during the war and the way their men in exile were received by Canadians during those years so hard for them.

It was because of this special regard for Norway and his respect for the great achievements of these few people that a Swede, Alfred Nobel, willed that while his other prizes should be given in Stockholm, the Peace Prize should be awarded in Oslo to a person chosen by a committee of Norwegians.

The country is proud of this honor and the award is always the occasion for special ceremonies extending over a couple of days which command much attention here. So our stay has been as busy as it has been pleasant and there has been much entertainment with many "skalls" and "takks for maten."

The prelude to the actual ceremony of presentation on Tuesday included, apart from the inevitable press, radio and television conferences, a luncheon given by Trygve Lie, the former Secretary-General of the United Nations, a dinner given by Halvard Lange, the foreign minister, whom I knew well and admire greatly, and a visit to the Nobel Institute where I saw pictures of all the earlier prize winners, and an audience with the King.

This latter event was especially interesting. The monarchy is very popular in this country. One reason for this is that it is such a "popular" institution in the best meaning of the word with a simplicity and lack of ostentation that does not detract in any way from the deep respect felt for the institution and the affection felt for the person of the King.

I found His Majesty very interested in and well informed about Canada. Indeed, our country seems to be the envy of all Norwegians.

On Tuesday the actual ceremony of presentation took place in the Aula or Great Hall of the university. It was done with formality and great dignity but with simplicity and sincerity in the presence of the King, Princess Astrid, members of the diplomatic corps including—and this caused some surprise, the Russian and other Communist ambassadors—the government and a large number of the general public who crowded the auditorium.

The president of the Nobel committee, a distinguished Norwegian, Gunnar Jahn, presided. He introduced me in a speech that was almost embarrassingly friendly and in which he showed that he had done a good deal of research into the more attractive aspects of my past activities.

After this speech the medal and scroll were handed to me and I was asked "to say a few words" of acknowledgment. In the circumstances it was not easy to give adequate expression to my feelings of pride, humility and appreciation of the honor I had received. It was an occasion that I am not likely to forget.

After the ceremony we had a late luncheon at the Canadian Embassy with our hosts, the Charge d'Affaires and Mrs. Thibault who had done so much to make our visit there such an agreeable one. Then we dropped in to see the British Ambassador and Lady Scarlett after which it was time to get into the inevitable and uncomfortable "white tie costume" (why do men put up with this torturing attire) for the formal dinner that was being given us by the Nobel committee.

Again, I had to say a "few words" in response to the toast to our health and in front of the blinding lights of television cameras. But it was a very happy and friendly evening.

On Wednesday the Mayor of Oslo had a luncheon party for us at a restaurant in wooded hills outside the city. They are very much like the Gatineau Hills outside Ottawa—and are already the scene of much skiing activity. The Norwegians love winter sports.

During the late afternoon, again at the university "Aula," I gave the Nobel lecture. This is a customary obligation on the part of the prize winner. As his price for the prize, the speaker is expected to say something as impressively as possible about peace and good-will.

But what can one say on that subject that hasn't been said so many times by so many people so much better. I recalled Albert Nobel's own words with some comfort that "long speeches will not ensure peace." At times, however, I also tried to remember they will induce sleep—which is a form of temporary peace.

Our visit was ended by a farewell party at the Embassy after my lecture and the next morning in the grey early light we took a plane for London. I'm afraid my column this week has been merely a combination of diary and travelogue but, as I said when I began, what else could I possibly write about?

Strawberries for Breakfast

THIS particular column should really be "On the Train," for at this very moment the amiable ancient who writes it, comfortably insulated in an air-conditioned capsule, is bowling merrily through the Group of Seven country towards the glittering towers of Toronto.

SILENUS

In days gone by this column has had many a harsh word to say about the fearsome experiences of train travel. On this occasion, its first journey in the snappy new Canadian, harsh words (or indeed any words) would be inappropriate. The whole business is about as painless as it is possible for travel to be.

They put you in at Vancouver, and take you out at the other end; 66 hours and some odd minutes elapse between these operations, and there you have it.

This gleaming creation of stainless steel and soft music, (two varieties, to suit every taste) is a miracle of compactness and sensible planning. It sits along competently at high speeds; its passage, on the whole, is smooth. It is remarkably quiet. Altogether, an excellent conveyance.

The only thing I miss from the bad old days of steam and smuts is the sensation of being on a train. For, while the Canadian runs on tracks, it is not a train. Not a real Canadian train, made of heavy steel cars upholstered in plush, smelling grandly of cigars and service, rattling, jouncing and grinding its portentous way across our vast Dominion behind a snorting behemoth of an engine equipped, as Reginald Gardiner said, with eight of everything.

I miss the hissing of steam, the clackety-clack of the old-fashioned octagonal wheels, the romantic whistle in the night. No glorified bus with a dismal blaring honk can make up for a steam engine and its glorious whistle. The diesel is powerful and economical no doubt, but it's not a locomotive. If you know what I mean.

As this column's journey reaches toward its effortless end, there are no bruises on hip, thigh and arm. One simply walks to and from the diner instead of hopping and skipping from one handhold to the next. To my certain knowledge, there has not been a single (a) lurch or (b) jerk.

Travellers of yore will remember the way the engineers of yore, when starting from a station, would back a bit just to gather up the slack of the train and then give it the gun to get going. Experienced passengers could sense it coming and would brace themselves for the jerk which followed. A good engineer could spill 20 plates of soup, given a slight upgrade, and wreak havoc among the effects of those who were not properly battened down. The Canadian slides away smoothly like any little English train. It's not right. It's not Canadian.

Of course, there are the scenic domes, which are a good innovation. When it rains, the dome sifter enjoys the odd sensation of reclining at ease in the out-of-doors without getting wet; and then the aspects of mountain scenery are magnificent seen in the round. But still this cantankerous old column misses those open streetcar things which were tacked on for the Vancouver to Calgary run. They had open ends for the hardy souls who enjoyed air and dust, and a little glassed-in bit in the middle where everyone took refuge when the train went through a long tunnel. Some notable friendships resulted from these dark and congested moments, now, alas, a thing gone from us for ever.

But it is wrong to complain. This train is fast and efficient, and who could want more?

Just the same, it somehow doesn't seem right to arrive at the other end without a cinder in one's eye, a patchwork of bruises and a sense of important accomplishment.

Medical Practice Prohibited

LONDON — The Englishman's well-known love of animals is endangering the lives of many humans in this country. In fact it is undoubtedly true that it has caused the death of not a few.

It might seem strange that the English affection for dogs, for instance, could prevent surgeons from properly performing certain operations, but here is the situation.

It was largely through the spadework of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals that the various protections of animals acts are on the statute books. These say, among other things, that any person who "shall cruelly beat, kick, ill-treat, torture, infuriate or terrify an animal" is guilty of an offence of cruelty.

Grudgingly the RSPCA has agreed that the strict letter of the law should not be observed when it comes to medical research. Though charges might be brought against those using animals for research, the matter is waived for the sake of humanity.

But "research" is the operative word. Beyond that the people who make it their special duty to safeguard animals will not go. And doctors here are fighting a constant battle against this attitude.

What surgeons here want to do is practice on animals and this is something on which the RSPCA steadfastly blocks them.

As merely one of many hazardous operations, take the example of the artificial heart. Naturally no surgeon would care to undertake an operation as complicated and perilous as this without knowing what he is about.

Such techniques cannot be learned out of a book or from just watching somebody do it. The ideal approach for a doctor is to perform the operation numerous times on an animal before taking a human life in his hands.

But the animal protectors say no, the installing of an artificial heart has been done before many times—it is not research. But, say the surgeons, such practice is not only for the man performing the operation but also for the anaesthetists, nurses, biochemists, etc., who make up the "team" failure on the part of any one of whom could end in disaster.

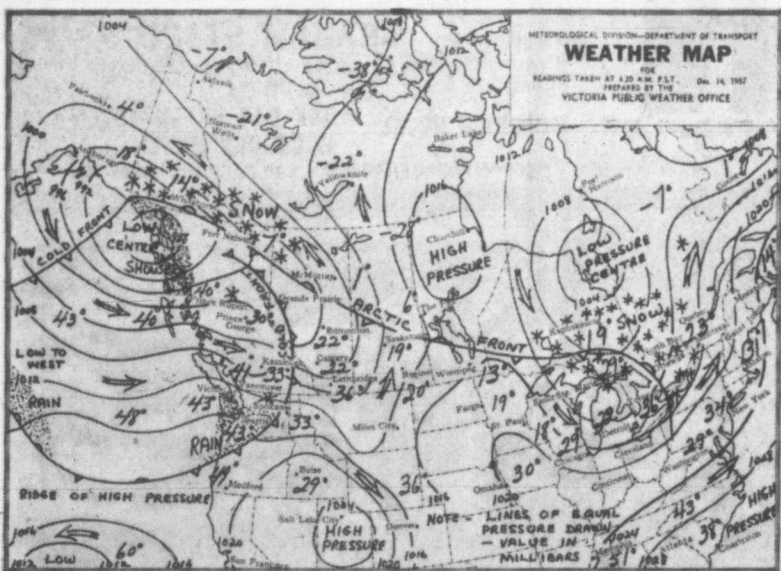

In Canada and the U.S., such a surgical team would operate on three dogs a week for a year before they felt that they were ready to perform the operation on a person.

But no such arguments make headway here against those set on protecting animals. Appalling result is that many surgeons and the people who work around them have no choice but to get their practice on humans.

In England a law for the protection of animals was passed 60 years before any law for protecting children was considered and still today the maximum fine for cruelty to animals is twice that for cruelty to children. That I thought was bad enough. But this broader aspect is even more shocking.

Allard Given Vokes' Post In Switch

OTTAWA (CP) — The defence department has countermanded the appointment of Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes, 53, as vice-chief of the army general staff, Defence Minister George Pearkes announced Friday.

Instead, the appointment will go to Brig. Jean Victor Allard, 44, commander of Eastern Quebec area. Brig. Allard will be promoted to major-general and take over his new post April 1.

NO REASON

No reason for the shift was given.

Gen. Vokes is chief of Western Command and was to have become vice-chief of the general staff in March.

Posting of Brig. Allard to army headquarters is considered to enhance his chances of becoming chief of the general staff in several years.

It is known that the defence department for some time has wanted a French-speaking chief of staff in at least one of the services.

Gen. Vokes' appointment as vice-chief of the general staff was announced Nov. 18 by Mr. Pearkes.

Martin in Leadership Race

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Veteran politician Paul Martin Friday night told representatives of the riding he has held for 22 years that he will "be available" for the Liberal party leadership.

Mr. Martin's decision, announced before 250 of his Essex East constituents, enters him with Lester B. Pearson, former external affairs minister, in the running for the party's top post. Mr. Pearson announced Dec. 4 he was available as a candidate.

The leadership convention will be held Jan. 14-16 in Ottawa when Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent will formally resign his post as Liberal chief.

Mr. Martin was a cabinet member for 12 years, serving 10 of them as health minister after being secretary of state.

Mr. Martin is 54, Mr. Pearson 60.

Mr. Martin, after praising Mr. St. Laurent, and criticizing the Progressive Conservatives, described Mr. Pearson as a "fine fellow."

He announced his leadership bid after saying that "next to serving the church, regardless of denomination, there is no greater opportunity of serving our fellow man than is open to us in public life."

BOOK TALK

By JAMES SCOTT

Hutchison, Cloete, Roy
Among Top Gift Choices

It's time indeed to contemplate those names on the Christmas list who have been slated to receive a book on Dec. 25. Each year the task of selection gets more difficult. No one man can possibly read all the books—or anything like them—which are now spewed into the bookstores in the two or three months before Christmas. The following selection, then, has to be purely personal, based on a book reviewer's somewhat dubious taste and restricted by his own recent reading.

There are quite a lot of good bets for two-listed men this year and they are often the category which needs the most filling. For example there is Ayn Rand's Atlas Shrugged, an uneven but highly stimulating book in defence of U.S. big business practices. There is also Stuart Cloete's The Mask (which has not yet been discussed in this space), a magnificent and thrilling book about Africa in the middle of the nineteenth century. Any red-blooded man will go for this one. I also liked John Marlyn's Under the Ribs of Death, Canadian first novel set in Winnipeg; George Hardy's City of Liberties, an account of Rome and how Julius Caesar schemed for power, and Marjorie Wilkins Campbell's The Northwest Company, just about the best Canadian non-fiction work I have read this year and as interesting as any novel.

More serious and not quite so enjoyable as reading is the Russian sensation. Not by Bread Alone, by Vladimir Dudintsev. For light poetry which men, and some women, will enjoy there is the Canadian anthology by A. J. M. Smith and F. R. Scott, The Blasted Pine, and for informal Canadian autobiography there is A. E. Corbett's We Have With Us Tonight.

Finally, there is Bruce Hutchison's Canada: Tomorrow's Giant which I predict will be under the tree for more Canadian men than any other single title. A look through it will tell you why.

For the ladies, another Canadian writer, Gabrielle Roy, supplies as good fare as anybody, anywhere, in Street of Riches, one of the most sensitive and beautifully-written books of the year. Also for the ladies who have a more romantic twist or like a good, clean, happy book, there is Nancy Jones The Stars Make Room or Paul Bonner's Amanda or Gladys Hasty Carroll's Sing Out the Glory.

For a more general category, Nevil Shute's On the Beach can be read by almost anybody because it talks to everybody.

the outdoors there is Robert Ruark in an entirely new vein—a gentle reminiscence of a boy growing up with his grandfather as his best friend in The Old Man and the Boy. There is a lot of lore and wisdom in this one and a great deal of tenderness, too.

And that, should get you well along with your Christmas list.

"Salvador, the Horse That Joined the Mounties." Illustration by Lloyd Scott from the book.

Child's Magic World Opens
On Christmas Book Stalls

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

It's a wise parent who is aware that every child's natural climate is compounded of imagery, creative fantasy and curiosity.

And wisest of all is the parent who, being aware, follows through by fostering such a climate with legend, words and pictures through the medium of books.

From my earliest remembered time, when books were of durable rag printed in the gayest of colors and simplest of outline drawings, I was made aware of the wizardry of such things.

Those youthful Christmases were memorable for many things, but for nothing more lasting than the new adventures and friendships I found in the books that were stacked beneath a long series of Christmas trees.

So that, for me, Christmas even today is not complete without books any more than it would be without turkey, gay baubles and holly.

RE-CREATE PAST

Which is why I spend a little of my valuable shopping hours at this crowded season of the year, browsing over the displays of children's books on store counters. They re-create for me a little of the magic past. And every year they seem to become more fascinating.

Any parent setting out to awaken a literary interest or nourish one already active, will find almost a plethora of choices this season.

For tiny tots there are charming items like Else H. Minarik's "Little Bear," (Harcourt) four stories for reading aloud or to one's self, with delightful pictures to look at.

"Prayer for a Chim," by Rachael Field, illustrated by Elizabeth Orton Jones (Brett Macmillan), has a delicate appeal and a wholesome message for the pre-school age child.

"Salvador, the Horse That Joined the Mounties," by Norman Emmott, with its clever, whimsical illustrations will delight the six to 10 group.

Then there is "The Cat in the Hat," written and illustrated by Dr. Seuss (Random), wonderful nonsense verse that encourages those beginning to read.

In fact there are far too many even for a sampling to be fair indication of what one may select. Books for the older boys and girls include new additions to such favorite series as Frederick B. Faulkner's Aqualung Twins: "The Aqualung Twins and the Vanishing People," (J. M. Dent and Sons).

For an appropriately seasonal choice, nothing could be much better than "The Children's Christmas Carol," (Penguin-Hall). This is a moving, beautifully written story by Johanna Spyri, author of the perennial "Heidi." It is illustrated, a little flamboyantly perhaps, by Daniel Noonan.

At any rate there is no excuse for children of whatever age not having several of their favorite book choices under the tree this Christmas.

Fact, Fiction Blend
In Crucial War Novel

(Reviewed By Tom Merriman)

THE ROCK, by Warren Tute. British Book Service, Toronto. 396 pages, $3.50.

Fourteen years service in the Royal Navy has helped Warren Tute in writing sea stories which have been placed in the same high class as those of C. S. Forester.

His latest "The Rock" is a novel of Gibraltar covering the most fateful years of World War II when the famous British fortress survived all threats and sent out the greatest armada the world has ever known; Operation Torch—the invasion of North Africa.

The story will stir some vivid memories for a number of Canadians now living in Victoria who left Canada to join the R.C.A.F. early in the war, saw service in the Battle of Britain and later went to Africa via Gibraltar.

The author stresses that "The Rock" is a novel. All characters are purely fictional but a number of events in the book did actually happen.

Characters include naval officers, the new governor as he lands to take over the administration, United States security officers, a Barbarossa family, wives and daughters. They come together in a tense story of home life and love and death on a fortress which is a launching site for war.

The author successfully achieves his aim of telling part of the great story of Gibraltar at a particularly crucial period and expressing his admiration for those who physically and psychologically suffered and survived a siege.

NOT LOGICAL

In a preface he makes some interesting comments on the future of Gibraltar. Today Spain wants it back, he points out, and geographically speaking, it is on the Spanish side. In Gibraltar the mother tongue is

ART IN REVIEW

By MONCRIEFF WILLIAMSON

Conclusions Are Drawn
From Artist's Drawing

What a season this has been for drawings! The unforgettable Goyas, water-colors from the Vancouver Art Gallery and now, until Dec. 22, Master Drawings of Four Centuries on view at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, together with drawings by the Vancouver artist, John Korner.

To the non-artist, drawings present a hazard, for the layman too often feels that his leg is being well and truly pulled. Art is the world where "anything goes" and in drawings the division between "good" and "bad" is, to the uneducated eye, hypothetical.

But there is no escaping the fact that unless an artist can draw he would be better employed washing dishes. There has never lived a first-rank artist, painter or sculptor, who was unable to draw well, even though he or she only used brush or chisel.

And it is not only how well he draws but what he draws which is an artist's yardstick. It might be said that the history of art is the history of drawing; a theory equally applicable to the primitive cave-dwellers in Lascaux or the modern primitives in Greenwich Village.

Drawings give us psychological insight to an artist's character. Drawings hide nothing. An artist might dress outrageously, wear his hair long or short, but his drawings will strip him bare. If he has nothing to say, his drawings will say it for him!

Yet how splendid is the alternative. There is nothing quite so eloquent, so positive in its demands, so bursting with poetry as a plainly stated drawing by an accomplished hand.

For example, one of the best works in the permanent collection at the Gallery is a drawing by Jan Zach. It is a study of the human figure, and the more I see it the more I am impressed by its excellence.

I have examined this drawing several times and have never had occasion to reconsider my first impression, that it is a sculptor's drawing, beautifully modelled and complete.

It is a tour de force. But then sculptors, or painters who incline towards sculpture, are very exciting draughtsmen. One has only to see sketches by Rodin, Maillol or Gaudier Brzeska to appreciate the angle of vision peculiar to sculptors, and it is "Portrait of an Old Woman" by the 17th century French artist, Nicolas Lagneau.

Another interesting exhibit was the water-color landscape "Lake St. Charles, Near Quebec" by the Canadian artist George Heriot (1766-1844). The work is very French in color and style, making a striking contrast to water-colors being done in England during the same period.

Tranquil World

And what of the world inhabited by Mr. John Korner? It is an untroubled world, devoid of ugliness. He has divided his subjects into four series, City, Crescent, Inlet and River. He is an artist of sensitive line and extreme analytical simplification. Each sketch has an air of hairbreadth, minuscule exactness.

Beyond the easy grace of his flowing or broken line there is a feeling that were one dot misplaced, then the entire composition would be irreparably destroyed.

Mr. Korner's world is tranquil, drenched in sun and crying out for the painter to bring it to life.

Against Fate

Reviewed by Norman Cribbens
TRISTRAM'S SALVATION, by Will R. Bird, The Ryerson Press, Toronto, 254 pages, $3.75.

This is the story of a group of pioneer men and women from Yorkshire who settled in Nova Scotia on the eve of the American Revolution. The Yorkshiresmen stood firm for Britain and the sparks of republican unrest in Nova Scotia sputtered and went out.

The Crabtree family, depicted in this powerful novel, are perhaps typical of Yorkshire folk—strong, stubborn people with a quiet patience that under provocation can erupt into a fierce and terrifying rage.

On the frontier of a harsh land they have to match their strength to the task of taming it, and temper their violence to the violence of its moods. There is no retreat—only victory or disaster.

Set against a factual background, is this study of a strong man caught up in a situation he cannot control. It is real, violent and revealing of human nature on trial.

THE STAMP CORNER

By REG NAIRNE

The Canadian Philatelic Society's annual exhibition, to be held at the Empress Hotel, May 9 to 11, is being jointly sponsored by the two local societies, the GVPs and the VPS. This will be the first time the national society has put on an exhibition in western Canada. Victoria was chosen for the 1958 show as it was thought it would fit in nicely with our Centennial celebrations.

W. A. Teare, vice-president of the C.P.S., and a resident of this city, has just returned from a trip to Toronto and Montreal where he conferred with Mr. Lamoureux, the president. He reports enthusiastic support from all across Canada, and it is evident that we shall have quite a contingent of collectors from the East coming out to participate in the affair.

Among the many letters received from across the continent is one from a collector from as far away as Texas, who asks for information as to hotel accommodation, and who incidentally desires to join our local society.

Donations (very much needed) are also being received, one of the more recent being the offer of a $50 cash prize, put up by Mr. Lewis, of this city, for the best showing of the stamps of any British Crown Colony, the only condition being that the exhibitor must be a member of the C.P.S.

One of the outstanding features of the show will, of course, be a selection of pages from the Royal Collection, which the Queen has graciously consented to loan for the occasion.

The Polish Government has also offered to put on a complete 20-frame exhibit of the stamps of that country, with all expenses paid, and an Irish collector is sending out several frames of Canadian cancellations.

Of Hasty Notes

Sketches by Peggy Walton Packard, well-known Victoria artist, have been issued in a new hasty note series entitled "Notes About Victoria."

The black and white drawings of characteristic and picturesque scenes and activities concerning this city are packaged 12 to a box with six different designs in each.

Developed from drawings made for a locally-issued guide book, they are available now at book stores and stationers.

The darnedest things happen on personal-appearance tours. Taina Elg said that while in New York in connection with MGM's "Les Girls" she was asked to sit for French artist Marcel Thebaud while he made sketches preliminary to a portrait. "It was both flattering and restful in the middle of a busy schedule," Miss Elg said.

WITH MEN WHO CAN'T BE VAGUE

Men must continue to open and develop Canada's northern frontier... adequate staffs must stay on duty constantly at lonely outposts. Progress calls for determination, rugged endurance, quick decisions. Perhaps that is why you find Haig & Haig in the picture with men who can't be vague. In ordering Scotch whisky, they naturally name the brand they know through experience to have singular virtues... the original Scotch flavour and gentleness that in 1627 set the standard for all to follow.

Sound Gift Suggestions From Year's Hi Fi Crop

By HUMPHRY DAVY

There has been a heavy run on records during the past week. Classical, popular music and jazz have been selling like hot cakes. Most of the discs, of course, will find their way under the Christmas tree in less than three weeks time.

Sales of radio phonographs and electronic equipment for assembling hi-fi sets, have also soared upwards. This all seems to confirm a statement from a TV and radio manufacturer that more people bought hi-fi equipment than TV sets.

But getting back to vinylite, this year saw some superb recorded performances of classical music. I was impressed by the Scala Opera Company series of operas which appeared under the Angel label. Puccini's "La Bohème" was first class, as were some of Verdi's works.

Massenet's "Manon" (Vic-4 discs) also proved to be an outstanding production. Columbia issued some real bargains in its Masterworks series. One of these featured four of Saint-Saens' most popular works (ML5154). Another record included Dukas' Sorcerer's Apprentice, Weber's Schwanda, polka and fugue; Liszt, Les Preludes; Strauss, Salome-Dance of the Seven Veils (Col. ML5198).

Among the many piano albums issued was one containing three of Beethoven's most popular piano sonatas—Moonlight, Pathétique, Appassionata. These are played by Serkin for Columbia ML5164.

It's my opinion, and professional musicians, I think, will agree, that Otto Klemperer's

In the field of popular music, I think Columbia in the last three months has taken the lead with its series of recordings of top flight U.S. music makers. Three of these two record albums which deserve mention are "Columbia Album of Richard Rodgers," "Columbia Album of Cole Porter," and the "Album of George Gershwin."

These are only some of the outstanding records. Perhaps one should also mention records of the late Benjamin Gigli, Walter Gieseking and Dennis Brain, the last named a great player of the French horn, who all died this year.

POPS LIBRARY

It is a little incongruous that Nat "King" Cole should turn to the blues for his new album as he has been so successful recently with the more uptempo single numbers. Nevertheless, Nat's new Just One of Those Things is certain to be vastly popular. Fine melancholy arrangements and musical tones are supplied by Billy May. Nat is a little defiant in his readings which leave the listener with the feeling that everything will come out all right. (Capitol).

Don Shirley's delicate jazz touch on a piano makes the album Improvisations by the Don Shirley Duo relaxed listening.

DDF JUDGE NAMED

Only Four Entries For B.C. Festival

A bi-lingual BBC Television producer, 37-year-old Richard West of London, Eng., has been named regional adjudicator of the Dominion Drama Festival.

He will spend two months judging 60 productions across Canada in the world's largest drama festival. Out of the 60 Mr. West will choose eight for presentation in the final festival scheduled to be held in May in Halifax, N.S.

B.C. regional festival will take place in Chilliwack March 17 to 20. Four groups have entered, including Victoria Theatre Guild with "Duet for Two Hands," a psychological drama directed by Mrs. Elizabeth Mayne.

Chilliwack Little Theatre has entered a Canadian play by Gwen Pharis Ringwood, "The Dark Harvest." New Westminster Vagabond Players will present Thornton Wilder's "The Skin of Our Teeth." White Rock Players will enter but have not yet announced the name of their entry.

The B.C. regional winning play will not necessarily be invited to the final festival, unless it is well up to the standard established by the adjudicator, as out of 14 regions in Canada, only eight productions can be selected.

CHILDREN'S VOICES will be raised with Victoria Symphony and Choral Society to tell the Christmas story at the Royal Theatre, Sunday and Monday. Christ Church Cathedral choir boys who will take part in cantata,

(BB PLUS) "TROOPER HOOK" (Odeon)—Most surprising thing about United Artists' "Trooper Hook" is that it should be forced into a double bill and play town for such a short time (it ends tonight). For, as westerns go, it is well above average.

In its bleakness, in its loneliness and misery "Trooper Hook" is not unlike that western classic of 1939, "Stage Coach." Although it has the expected amount of action, it also contains sound acting by principals Joel McCrea, Barbara Stanwyck, Earl Holliman, and a goodly number of "characters" who might have been quite like those who peopled the wild frontiers before the turn of the century.

success of the picture stands. Miss Stanwyck comes up with one of her best performances in a long time and the characters portrayed by the stars is made all the more believable by the acting of Holliman as a roving cowboy.

Extra Kick

C. V. Whitney, independent producer, gets a big kick out of appearing in his motion pictures as an extra.

In his second major Technicolor production, "The Missouri Traveler," Whitney marches as a Spanish-American war veteran, along with 350 Hollywood extras, in re-enactment of a July 4th parade. Presenting an impressive military figure, with a carbine on his shoulder, Whitney said he enjoyed the experience immensely.

In "The Searchers," his initial production, Whitney appeared as a Texas Ranger in an assault on an Indian village.

Dialect Expert In Precise Role

David Kossoff, one of England's foremost character actors, has been signed for a featured role with Cary Grant and Ingrid Bergman in "Kind Sir," which Stanley Donen is producing and directing for Warner Bros. in England.

Kossoff is best known in the United States for his performance in "The Bishop's Carrot," which won last year's Academy Award as the best two-reel short subject. Although a specialist in dialect roles, Kossoff will portray Miss Bergman's precise-speaking English chauffeur in "Kind Sir."

The pipe organ, in approximately its present form, dates back to the third century before Christ.

Guest artists, Victoria Choral Society, Graham Steed conducting, in first full Canadian performance of Vaughan Williams' "Hodie." Also Christmas carols, and audience participation, Royal Theatre.

Wednesday, Dec. 18 at 8:15: Annual "Carols in the Candlelight" service, First United Church. Guest artist, Lorna Langley, harpist; vocal soloists.

Wednesday, Dec. 18 at 3 p.m.: Victoria Musical Art Society Carol Tea, Olde England Inn. Program of carols and Christmas songs under direction of Mrs. Margaret Dixon. Reservations; phone 4-3663.

Thursday, Dec. 16 at 8 p.m.: Yuletide Varieties, a Christmas concert by pupils of Central Junior High School, Central Junior High Auditorium. Choral and instrumental music, nativity play.

Sunday, Jan. 12 at 3 p.m., and Monday, Jan. 13 at 8:30: Boyd Neel, Dean of Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto, guest conductor with Victoria Symphony Orchestra, Royal Theatre.

Monday, Jan. 20 at 8:30: Violinist Yehudi Menuhin in recital; a Famous Artists' presentation, Royal Theatre.

FRONTIER CAKES: MGM prop people couldn't find cake pans large enough to turn out cakes large enough to satisfy historical researchers for "The Sheepman." The frontier people liked their cakes much larger, apparently, and when a search of Los Angeles stores failed to find some, a studio tinsmith made the pans to order. The cooking experts in the commissary took over from there.

TRADITIONAL CAROLS in her own arrangement will be played by harpist Lorna Langley when she appears as guest artist on the program for the 10th Annual Carols in the Candlelight concert at First United Church. Lovely carols and other Christmas music will be performed by the choir and soloists. Holst's "Christmas Day" choral fantasy will be a feature.

CAUGHT IN TRAFFIC

Jockey Willie Williams wasn't preparing to walk home when he found himself in jam after his mount, Golden Pat, fell at first hurdle of steeplechase race at Newbury, Eng. Williams also went down, suffering dislocated shoulder and head gash. Golden Pat was not injured. (NEA.)

THE SCOREBOARD

BY

Harry Grayson

NEW YORK (NEA)—"Everything," Frank Gifford spreads his palms, "began with the trophy . . . the movie offers, the endorsements."

The handsome New York Giant halfback was describing what it meant to him to receive the Jim Thorpe Trophy as the outstanding player of the National Football League in 1956.

This was the material reward. Equally important to Gifford was recognition he esteemed the most—the vote of the players of National Football League that he was their best.

"You're chosen by your own guys," says Giff, "and that means everything."

Ballots have again been marked by the same guys, every player in the National Football League. The winner of the third annual Jim Thorpe Trophy will be announced Monday.

Rounding out another strong campaign as a running and pass receiving threat for the Giants, Gifford is again a heavy contender for the professional game's original most valuable player prize.

A quartet of quarterbacks, however, is prominent in the scramble for votes. Their momentary leader is John Unitas, the phenomenal pitcher of the Baltimore Colts, who two falls ago was picking pebbles out of his pants on Pittsburgh sandlots, a Steeler reject who nudged his way onto the Colt roster and this year has thrown 22 touchdown passes, more than any other man in the league.

Bobby Layne, who was continuing the fine comeback he instigated in 1956, had kept the Detroit Lions in contention with his clutch throwing and booting until he broke an ankle against the Browns last Sunday. Two 10-year veterans, Charley Connerly of the Giants and Y. A. Tittle of the San Francisco 49ers, are having remarkable seasons.

Tittle probably best embodies all the tools of a T-quarterback—smart signal caller, superb fader, adept thrower and dangerous runner.

Connerly, who admits to 36, has been carrying the Giant load all alone this year, since Stan in Don Heinrich broke his thumb in an early game. There isn't a better arm among the pros.

Any voting must take into account the Cleveland pair of Tommy O'Connell and Jim Brown, an improbable updated version of the Otto Graham-Marion Motley combine that used to terrorize the pros. Brown is the recruit who played halfback in college and has become the leading fullback bull in the game. O'Connell is a Chicago Bear reject snubbed by other clubs.

Undenially, the offensive stars have all the best of it when it comes to picking up individual honors. You don't score, you don't win. But if you were looking for defensive standouts, you might go for Gino Marchetti, who's played a titanic brand of end for the Colts.

The true facets of a man's talent come out when you poll the players who've played on both sides of the line with him. Such a man deserves to be cast in the tradition of Jim Thorpe, football's greatest figure.

COUGARS' 'THANK YOU'

Club Hockey Nights Come Up Next Week

The first of what is hoped to be a series of club hockey "nights" will be held Wednesday when the Victoria Glitz Shrine Club takes over Memorial Arena during the Cougar New Westminster Royals Western Hockey League game.

On hand for the festivities will be the famous Shrine Band, as well as the figure-skating team of Mr. and Mrs. Clem Patterson. Proceeds of the night will go to the various Shrine charities.

Saturday night, Dec. 21, will be the Victoria Hockey Club's Christmas Hockey Party. There will be 20 hams and turkeys given away to lucky ticket holders, as well as hundreds of bags of candy for the youngsters.

The Cougars feel it's the best way of saying "thank you" to the fans who have supported them during the season.

Entertainment will feature a world-famous clown. "Dead & Pan"

Duke," for many years with the Ringling Bros. Circus, who recently appeared on the Arthur Godfrey and Ed Sullivan television shows, has offered to entertain fans during the game.

Tommy's Dilemma: What's He Worth?

LONDON (CP)—Manager Tommy Lawton of Nottingham County is shopping for a new centre forward—himself.

The selling price is $850 and manager Lawton says player Lawton isn't worth it.

The 37-year-old one-time international star wants to play for his second-division club in a Football Association Cup match against Tranmere Rovers in January. But Kettering Town, the non-league club he led to the Southern League championship last season as playing-manager, still holds the rights to his services on the field.

Kettering paid $1,000 to Arsenal to get Lawton a year ago and it wants some of its money back. But Lawton says "that's a lot of money for an old one like me."

Cards Sign First New Bonus Player

ST. LOUIS (AP)—St. Louis Cardinals Friday signed up an 18-year-old outfielder from Grove, Okla., for a reported $50,000. The youngster, Jimmy Beauchamp, is one of the first bonus players acquired by a major league baseball club since the bonus rule was killed recently.

Beauchamp was assigned to Omaha of the American Association. The six-foot-one 185-pounder is attending Oklahoma State University as a freshman.

It's Almost Time For Polar Plunge

With Christmas drawing nearer, plans are under way once again for the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club's annual Christmas Day swim in the Inner Harbor.

The 50-yard handicap event, open to all registered amateur swimmers in the city, is slated to start at 11 a.m. in the race for the Capt. M. D. Harbour Trophy.

Winner of the 1956 swim, George Dufour, is expected to return to defend his title in the race, which has been going strong since 1919. The only interruption came in the year when the harbor froze over and the race had to be cancelled.

Entry forms are available at the Crystal Garden box office or from VASC president Jim McCague.

Durrelle Wants Pompey Match

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—Chris Shaban, manager of British Empire and Canadian lightweight boxing champion Yvon Durrelle, said here Friday night that Durrelle will probably fight Yolande Pompey of Trinidad in Montreal next January.

"Nothing has been signed yet," Shaban said, "but if Pompey beats Clarence Hinnant, who scored a TKO win over Yvon last February, in Chicago on Wednesday, then it's quite certain that the proposed Montreal bout will come off."

Shaban said he still has his eye on a title shot at world champion Archie Moore and "We'll be ready whenever we get a chance, but in the meantime I plan to keep Yvon busy to keep in shape."

Durrelle was KO'd by Pompey in seven rounds in London in October, 1955. He was stopped by Hinnant in the seventh in 1957, but since has gone 10 straight fights without a loss.

ANGELA MISSES
MELBOURNE (AP)—Britain's Angela Mortimer failed in a bid to win her third Australian state women's singles title at Kooyong today. She was beaten in the final of the Victoria tennis championships by 20-year-old Lorraine Coghlan of Australia, 7-5, 7-5.

WHAT'S IMPORTANT? EDUCATION OR HOCKEY?

Toronto Players Differ

TORONTO (CP)—Two players of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League Friday expressed different views on professional hockey's control over promising young players.

Defenceman Jimmy Morrison said professional hockey should be prohibited by law from interfering with a young player's education until he is at least 18.

Leaf captain George Armstrong disagreed. Armstrong said the question of moving a boy from school to play hockey is a decision for the individual and his parents.

Their comments followed the publicity given the case of William Francis Speer, a 15-year-old grade eight student from Lindsay now playing with the suburban Dixie Bees, a junior B team sponsored by Chicago Black Hawks of the NHL.

The Hawks allow Speer $21 a week for board, $23 a month for school fees and $5 a week spending money. Speer's parents said they are satisfied with the arrangements for their son's accommodation, schooling and general supervision.

"I think that professional teams should be prevented from having any control over young players until they have finished school. There should be a law against it, at least until the boys are 18," said Morrison.

"Young players don't realize how important their edu-

Cougar Rally Barely Misses; Billy Keeps Warriors Rolling

Mosienko Scores Winning Goal Against Flyers

By The Canadian Press
Starry Winnipeg Warriors' forward, Billy Mosienko, continues to ignore Father Time's beckoning. The Warriors hope he turns a deaf ear for some time.

Friday Billy scored the winning goal as Winnipeg nipped Edmonton Flyers 2-1 to increase its lead to seven points in the Western Hockey League's Prairie division.

On the coast, Vancouver Canucks almost blew a 4-0 lead before edging Victoria 4-3 while Seattle trimmed leading New Westminster 5-1.

Billy, alongside Doug and Max Bentley for Chicago Black Hawks, formed one of the National Hockey League's most prolific units.

The 37-year-old smoothie skated off a leg injury earlier this season and is back in the form that made him one of the NHL's most-feared sharpshooters for 14 years.

Sophomore Len Lunde gave the Flyers a 1-0 lead but Doug Lamoreux tied the game from close in on Flyer goalie Dennis Riggan. The rest was Mosienko's. He skated in alone and shaking off a Flyer defender lifted a shot into an upper corner.

Warrior goalie Ray Mikulan kicked out 38 shots, 16 in the third period.

In Seattle, the Americans built up a 5-0 lead and coasted to a win over the leading Royals.

Hank Bassen was in goal for the Americans. The netminder had been absent for some time following the death of his parents in an automobile accident near Calgary last month.

Ray Kinasevich scored twice to lead the Americans. Guyle Fielder, Rudy Filion and Val Fonteyne added the others. Duke Edmundson scored the Royal tally from a face-off midway through the final period.

SUSAN BUTT

TO WRITE FOR TIMES

Sue Will Tell Us All About Tennis

One of Canada's outstanding woman tennis players is joining the writing ranks.

Susan Butt, 19-year-old Victoria tennis star, launches a net campaign Dec. 30 that could stamp her as one of the ranking players in the world.

She'll let us know about her progress, as well as the colorful, behind-the-scenes happenings on the winter circuit, in a series of columns to be written exclusively for The Times.

Miss Butt will join the winter circuit at Tampa, Fla., in time to participate in the Dixie championships Dec. 30. She'll leave Victoria Dec. 27.

The B.C. Lawn Tennis Association announced earlier this week that arrangements have been completed for Sue to play on the circuit, which annually attracts most of the leading U.S. players as well as many of Europe's best.

The BCLTA and the Canadian Association are co-operating to help Miss Butt finance the trip.

She expects to stay on the circuit, which covers the Caribbean as well as many of the southern states for about three and a half months.

BCLTA president Jim Macken of Vancouver, who predicts Susan will be one of Canada's all-time greats, feels the tour will help her become one of the world's top performers because "she learns so quickly."

"She's one of the most receptive girls I ever met. Sue picks up the finer points of the game very quickly and is a real enthusiast."

Bill Made No Mistake So Packers Share Top

The oft-times erratic Kamloops Chiefs were good when they had to be and defeated Kelowna 5-4 Friday night to move into a first-place tie with the Packers in the Okanagan Senior Hockey League.

The Chiefs, who have been running first or second almost all season, have taken their lumps on occasions.

Veteran Bill Hryciuk scored his second goal of the game with 10 seconds remaining for the win.

In the OSHL's other game, Penticton V's and Vernon Canadians matched goals through three periods and an overtime session until they had seven each.

Ex-Penticton player Grant Warwick, Fred Sasakamoose and coach Bobby Dawes added the others for Kamloops. Greg Jablonski picked up a brace for Kelowna while Harry Smith and Brian Roche added singletons.

In Penticton, leftwinger Walt Peacock scored at 8:25 of the overtime to give the V's their 7-7 tie.

The game was deadlocked at 6-6 at the end of regulation time. Sherman Blair connected to give the Canadians a 7-6 lead at the 44-second mark of the bonus session.

Peacock and Eddie Diachuk each scored twice for the V's. Hal Tarala, Clare Wakshinski and Don Slater got the others.

Cushman Case Still Pending

MONTREAL (CP)—President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League, stated Friday he hasn't yet disposed of the case of defenceman Ian Cushman, of Chicago Black Hawks, largely because one of the principal witnesses hasn't been able to talk.

Doug Mohns, of Boston Bruins, suffered a broken jaw when slammed by Cushman during a game in Chicago last Sunday.

Cushman was given a match penalty, which brought an automatic $100 fine. All cases of match penalties and game misconduct penalties must be reviewed by the league president but there is no automatic suspension from play.

Campbell said he may possibly be able to dispose of the case without formal appearance of Mohns as an oral witness and will talk with Boston officials here today.

Barbizon Sold

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Calumet Farm's Barbizon, leading two-year-old thoroughbred in 1956 and winner of the $319,210 Garden State Stakes that fall, has been sold to Warner L. Jones Jr. It was learned Friday.

Jones, owner of Hermitage Farm near Louisville, Ky., did not reveal purchase price. He said Barbizon would be raced the remainder of this year but his primary purpose in buying the three-year-old son of Polynesia was for breeding.

Cats Continue Feud With Canucks Tonight

Victoria Cougars will be tackling their Western Hockey League chomps with the desperation of last-minute Christmas shoppers when they face Vancouver Canucks at Memorial Arena tonight.

Time is beginning to run out on the Cougars in their bid to climb into contention for a coast division playoff berth and a win over the Canucks tonight is an important item on their shopping list.

Despite a terrific closing rally at Vancouver Friday night, the Cats were thwarted in their attempt to launch another winning streak, finishing up on the short end of a 4-3 count. It was the fourth one-goal decision they have lost to Vancouver this season and it dropped them 13 points behind third-place Seattle Americans, who whipped the front-running New Westminster Royals, 5-1.

Cougars ran into an old problem—clearing the puck from their own end—and were trailing, 4-0, midway in the second period.

Red Johnson and Elliott Chorley gained credit for the first two Cougar goals on shots deflected past goalie Emile Francis by Cougar defencemen Pat Egan and Carl Kaiser.

Rookie Bob Robinson flipped the puck into the net from a goalmouth scramble to make it 3-0 at the end of the first session and then collected his second tally before the Cats got untracked in the second.

Gordie Wilson started the Cougars on the comeback trail, circling the Vancouver net to whip a short drive past goalie Marcel Pelletier at 11:47.

Then Gordie Haworth broke a scoring drought on a neat play with Doug Kilburn and Frank Milne and less than a minute later the Cougars were within a single goal as Stan Baluk scored his fifth goal of the season.

CARRIED PLAY

Cougars carried most of the play through the rest of the game but couldn't get another shot behind Pelletier, who had his hottest time in third period, when he was called on to handle 14 shots while the Canucks were able to level only three at Francis.

Over the route, Cougars outshot the Canucks, 41-24, and had a 30-11 bulge on shots on goal during the final 40 minutes.

It was the second 4-3 loss for the Cats since they fashioned a four-game win streak and they'll be attempting to get back on the winning side of the ledger and stretch their home victory skein through a fourth game tonight.

BLASTS CHAPMAN

Manager Colin Kilburn added new fuel to the Victoria-Vancouver feud this morning when he leveled a new blast at Vancouver coach Art Chapman.

Irrked over reports that Chapman claims to have helped the Cougars by allowing them to pick up coach Pat Egan and Frank Milne, Kilburn said, "I don't know where Chapman gets the idea he is the Cougars' Santa Claus."

"Egan was off the Vancouver retired list for more than a year before he signed with the Cougars."

"And Milne is owned by the Cleveland Barons, who didn't think he got a fair deal at the Vancouver training camp. The Barons called us and asked if we were interested in taking Milne since they could see no future for the youngster under Art Chapman."

"If Chapman thinks he is the Cougars' Santa Claus, I wouldn't want too many gifts from him."

The feud continues at Memorial Arena at 8 tonight.

Carter's Scoring Better Than Form

By GRAHAM COX

If ever you want to learn how to bowl tenpins the wrong way, and still take nearly every top tournament on the North American Continent, Don Carter is the man to watch.

With one foot cocked far out behind him and his chin trying to gouge chunks out of the alleys, Carter captured the first World Invitational Tenpin title Friday night in Chicago.

He defeated teammate Tom Hennessy by a score of 313.36 to 311.06, on the Peterson scoring system, to carry home the winner's pot of $3,000.

On the distaff side, the amazing housewife-grandmother from Grand Rapids, Michigan, Marion Ladewig, took $2,500 as first prize in the ladies' division of the same tourney.

She scored 159.1 to 148.2 against Phyllis Notaro, of Brandt, New York, to wind up her 32-game trial with 27 wins, five losses for an average of better than 205 for all 64 games in the preliminaries and finals.

Local five and tenpin keggers will be able to get as much action as they can manage during the Christmas holidays, with every pin-house in town offering cash and competition.

Larry Marshall, at Esquimalt, is offering fivepin singles and doubles between Dec. 27 and Jan. 2 over a nine-game course with guaranteed purses of not less than $50. Scratches will be from 240 at 80 per cent with special prizes going to the high single and any 400 games rolled.

At Strathcona, Roy Begg is offering Christmas turkey doubles in both five and tenpins between Dec. 16 and 23. They will be mixed competitions with 75 per cent handicaps on 200 pins in the five's and 75 per cent on 180 in the tens.

Two tourneys will be the feature holiday attraction at Gibson's Bowldrome with tenpinners slated to roll Dec. 28 and 29 to 70 per cent handicaps on 185 pins. The fivepin event will be run over the weekend of Jan. 4 and 5 when the pins will have to total 250 to qualify for the 70 per cent handicap. All Gibson events will be for both singles and doubles.

Hitherto unheralded, the hottest fivepin bowling of the week came in the Dockyard League at Gibson's where Al Sehaub ripped out an 891 series with singles of 310, 312 and 269 to lead the way for all other city bowlers.

A couple of other good scores were recorded at Gibson's when J. Merriman hit 804 (333) and Wilt Bates had 815 in the Financial League to lead Dick Donaldson 735, S. Cumberland 794 (336), Brian Green 725 and Herb Hunt 741 (310).

Howie Butler set the Commercial Fivepin pace with his 785 to lead Stan Bell 779 (309), Cec McRae and Roy Jago 741, Bill Odgers 729, Don Corbett 726, Wes Vogler 725, Dick Bird 722 (301), H. Quissey 768 (333), R. Chamberlain 759, H. Smith 775 (323), Ray Vater 784 (310), B. McKinnon 753 and Harry Cool 733 (318).

Mixed Leaguer Hy Harriott rolled 745 (306) and H. Harris had 744 (320).

B. Bosch took top spot for the week at Esquimalt when he registered his 836 (305) series to lead Cy Waters with 824 (302) and Harry Sistrone 803 (304).

Al Prezeau scored 797 (302) and Doug Crawford scored the high single of the week, 336, on his way to a 776 series. Mark Cunningham had 772, Frank Morgan 772, Geoff Worrall 771 (309), F. Kelly 769, Joan White 760, Ben Price 752, Cy Wallis 751, E. Dawson 750 (320), Alec Speirs 737 (324), Dot Aldridge 731 (313) and Emil Liska 722.

Wilbur Webb led the Gibson's Mixed Leagues, and the city, in tenpins this week when he rolled out his 602 (234) series as Flora Kirker and her ten-pound ball paced the ladies of the Women's Major League with a 586 (202, 206) series.

In Gibson's Senior League, Bob Bystedt had 555, Roy Begg 589 (222, 212), Wilt Smith 573 (223), Ted Bowcott 586 (213, 215), Andy Palmer 542 (205), Andy Hawkins 564 (229), Gordy Bamford 565, A. Quinn 545, Ron Wilson 576 (223), Bill Coates 557 (215), W. Johnston 575 and Nick Howard 571 (210).

Commercial Leaguers were paced by W. Templeton's 582 (215) followed by S. Dwernychuk's 558, Dave Barr 558 (205), Elmer Curtis 551 (205), Ian McKeachie 562 (215), Walt Davis 569 (210), Wilbur Webb 540, Al Tripp 541 and Andy Ovcharik 541 (201).

At Strathcona, Andy Nelson led the Seniors with 584 (214) ahead of Ralph Baker 56 (220), Norm Gamble 577 (211) and Bob Bystedt 556.

CLUB TITLES AT STAKE IN MONDAY SWIM MEET

Club championship trophies will be at stake at the Crystal Garden Monday night when the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club combines its annual gala and children's Christmas party.

Splashes will be eyeing an impressive collection of trophies as they start freestyle competitions for boys' and girls' club titles in 12-and-under, 14-and-under, 16-and-under and senior divisions.

Junior girls will also be competing for the Dopson Trophy, a new award donated by Maureen Dopson, in a backstroke event.

The program will get under way at 6.30 p.m.

BIG THREE PULL OUT

Coast Grid Machine Ready to Collapse?

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Three big powers of the Pacific Coast Conference—University of California, UCLA and University of Southern California—Friday decided to pull out of the 42-year-old league.

The USC board of trustees set the Trojans' withdrawal date as on or after July 1, 1958.

The board of regents for the California universities at Berkeley and Los Angeles voted to end their membership June 30, 1959.

The action climaxed a year and a half of bitterness within the conference which began in the summer of 1956 when heavy penalties were imposed on USC, UCLA, California and Washington for excessive aid to athletes.

Other conference members are Stanford, Oregon, Oregon State, Washington State and Idaho. The withdrawals will leave USC, UCLA and Cal free to give financial aid to athletes on their own standards, to schedule more intercollegiate opponents and to police their own code.

Many observers feel that Stanford also will withdraw and that the PPC will be wrecked.

The long-range effect of the withdrawals upon the famed Rose Bowl football game will not be known for some time.

The PCC and the Big Ten Conference each have two-year contracts with the Tournament of Roses to supply a representative for the New Year's Day game.

Under PCC penalties imposed in 1956, USC would not be eligible to play in the Rose Bowl until 1959 and UCLA until 1960 under any circumstances.

Spieser Says IBC Blocked Fight Plans

DETROIT (AP)—Joe Spieser, brother-manager of light-heavyweight Chuck Spieser, said Thursday the title bout between champion Archie Moore and Spieser will be postponed at least until late February.

Local independent promoters have had difficulty lining up television coverage and raising money for the fight that originally was announced last October and scheduled for late January in Detroit.

Spieser said Wednesday that the International Boxing Commission had blocked two tentative deals to televise the fight.

Old Pro Saves American Cause

BRISBANE, Australia (UP)—Vic Seixas, the "old pro" from Philadelphia, rescued the United States Davis Cup team from an ignominious fate today when he whipped Jackie Brichant of Belgium, 10-8, 6-0, 6-1, in the fifth and decisive match of the inter-zone final.

By winning the best-of-five series, 3-2, the slightly stunned Yanks earned the right to oppose defending champion Australia for the 14th straight time in the challenge round at Melbourne, Dec. 26-28. But they almost didn't make it.

Philippe Washer, who had teamed with Brichant to upset the Americans in Friday's doubles match, sprung another surprise when he turned back Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., 6-2, 6-3, 0-6, 6-3, in today's first singles match.

Washer's victory deadlocked the series at two-all and the Belgians needed just one more upset to complete one of the greatest comebacks in cup history. But Seixas ruined their dreams by settling an old score with Brichant in straight sets.

It was on these same Milton Stadium courts four years ago that Brichant defeated Seixas in another inter-zone final. The veteran Philadelphian pledged that one day he would get his revenge and he couldn't have picked a more propitious moment than this sweltering afternoon.

The crowd rooted hard for Brichant, but the plucky Belgian ran into the same trouble he encountered Thursday when he and Washer dropped their opening singles matches—Queensland's torrid summer heat. The temperature was 90 in the shade and probably approached 100 degrees on the court.

That first set, which lasted 52 minutes, left the Belgian utterly exhausted and Seixas needed only 26 minutes to capture the next two sets and the match.

FIGHT RESULTS

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—Kid Irapato, 134, Mexico, outpointed Carmen Jacobucci, 120, Cincinnati, 16.
GOTHENBURG, Sweden—Ingemar Johansson, 202½, Sweden, outpointed Archie Moore, 188½, Trenton, N.J., 10.

Put Santa Claus on the rooftop or lawn to wave a friendly greeting this Christmas and he'll highlight the holiday spirit of the house. Anyone can have this jolly celebrity as a focal point of the yule display.

Plywood Santa Claus Waves from Rooftop

He can be made in an afternoon and will last for years to be touched up a bit and brought out again each Christmas season. The Santa shown here is as simple to cut out and put together as the few tools needed to do the job. A regular cross-cut saw and hammer are all the handyman needs for this one. Every cut is a straight line and no trick at all to follow on the pattern given. The whole happy figure can be seen from one 4x8 foot panel of fir plywood. Any thickness of plywood 1/2 inch or thicker will do the job. The fir plywood specified here is obtainable from any lumber dealer. It has waterproof glue and is ideal material for making displays that will be outdoors in all weather.

GRAPH
First step is to square off the plywood panel with lines 3 inches apart. On this large graph draw the main outlines of the parts as shown. To make sawing easy, cut off the bottom of the panel first, with a cut at X along the base of the main figure.

A cut at Y down the left hand side of the main figure is the only sawing job that requires a bit of doing. One person can get at it with two saw horses and a plank angled across them to kneel on. One good way to cut any large piece of plywood is to lean two 2x4's at an angle to the wall and clamp the plywood to them. It is then easy to make the cut.
To saw out and trim the parts of the Santa is simple once the major cuts are made. Touch up the edges with a bit of sandpaper, nail the parts together as detailed and the figure is ready for a bright coat of paint.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q—What is a good rule to follow in figuring the number of electrical outlets to provide for a room?—K. A.
A—In general, it's wise to have an outlet at least every six feet around a living room or other room for general use. Hallways should have outlets every 12-15 feet and workrooms, such as kitchens or workshops, should have outlets no more than four feet apart in areas where electrical appliances are to be used.

BEASTALL ADVISES

Study Grapevine Anatomy Before Wielding Knife

By JACK BEASTALL

Judging from the number of gardens in which outdoor vines have been planted, the grape was once very popular with Victorians. Since that time many of the gardens have changed hands and the new owners are not getting the luscious bunches of grapes they had anticipated.

In many instances the old vines have become a tangled mass which could well be the envy of the blackberries that romp over our vacant lots, and in this condition the fruits are conspicuous by their absence.

Jack

Actually, one of the surest fruits is the grape, a crop each year being almost a certainty after the third year from planting, but success is closely linked with regular pruning, an art difficult to grasp unless one has a vine and can observe its growing habits.

Pruning is done in mild weather during December, and to be successful with varieties bred on this continent for outdoor growing the gardener must bear in mind that the grapes appear on wood of the same season's growth which arises from wood of the previous season.

This reads like a printer's error but it is basic principle of grape growing.

RODS AS CANES

To illustrate: A vine has a main trunk extending from soil level to a certain height, maybe five feet for a two-wire trellis or more for a wall or arbor. Lateral growths from the trunk, known as rods or canes, form the semi-permanent arms of the vine comparable to the scaffold limbs of a young fruit tree, excepting they are replaced with new rods from time to time.

The position of these canes or rods is carefully predetermined to suit the method of training and the area to be covered, suitably placed buds being selected for cane production. From the canes start the upright growths which bear the bunches of grapes in succeeding years.

To explain the basic principle of pruning we can select any growth which started from a bud in the spring of the year. It has now made buds along its entire length.

Next spring, these buds will produce either shoots, near the base of which an average of two clusters of fruits will be borne, or canes of which only the strongest will bear fruiting buds for the following year.

LIMIT CLUSTERS

Another important factor coupled with the production of good fruits is that a vine should bear only a limited number of clusters. The number varies with the vigor of the vine and its natural tendency to produce, and is controlled at pruning time to range between 30 and 80.

If a vine is strong enough to carry 50 clusters, the skilled grower selects 25 good buds to

WEEK'S WORK

BY JACK BEASTALL

Hardwood cuttings of many of the more commonly grown, and very beautiful, flowering shrubs may be taken now, and will root by spring in a sheltered bed of sandy soil.

Burn woody prunings, or those with thorns. Keep ashes dry in a tin can for use around onions, pinks or carnations in spring.

Sweet peas sown indoors in October will need to be potted singly into 3-inch pots. Keep in cold frame for winter.

Flowering annuals sown indoors for early spring pot decorations have made much growth and may need repotting into pots one size larger. Some, like schizanthus, the butterfly-flower or poor-man's orchid, will need pinching back half way.

Grapevines in greenhouse should be pruned immediately leaves fall. Cut laterals back to two buds.

A dozen early variety potato tubers with eyes showing may be planted in a raised bed, a sandy border, or under a glass cloche.

Continue planting of trees and shrubs as long as soil remains workable.

PUZZLES and PASTIMES

USE CENTS, THEN APPLY SENSE

You can provide an interesting puzzle for your next party by drawing a diagram like this with squares large enough to enclose dimes or pennies. Draw a diagram for each guest present.

Have guests place three cents in the three squares marked "C" and three dimes in the three marked "D." Object of the game is to have cents and dimes change places, one at a time, in the fewest possible number of moves, and in accordance with these rules:

- Cents can move only one square at a time, from left to right, and the dimes one square at a time from right to left on to unoccupied spaces. Cents can leap over dimes and dimes over cents to unoccupied spaces.

HOW MUCH CASH IN EACH SAFE?

These four portable strong-boxes contain a total of three hundred dollars. There is a different amount in each box. The money in box 1 added to one-half the money in boxes 2, 3 and 4 would make a total of $165.

Box 2 plus one-third of 1, 3 and 4 totals $140.

Box 3 plus one-fifth of 1, 2 and 4 totals $132.

Box 4 plus one-sixth of 1, 2 and 3 equals $150.

TEST YOUR SKILL AT BOXING

This is a boxing lesson, requiring little manual dexterity and no knowledge of fisticks. Suppose you have three boxes of unequal size (as at right) and 10 marbles. The problem is to place an odd number of marbles in each box with the greatest number in the large box and the fewest in the smallest box. How quickly can you do it?

Hint: It is not just a problem in mathematics. Something more than math is required to find the answer.

No fair peeking at the answers.

CHASING SHADOWS WITH PENCIL

There are some shadowy figures present, some of which are meant to puzzle the viewer. How quickly can you find them?

SURE THING BETS

It may not be a sporting to make a bet you can't lose, but it's fun to be able to put something over on someone. In these bets, just let your opponent use his wits to find out how it happens you're able to win every time. When he has been caught, he can have fun initiating others. See if you can figure out why it is you can't lose.

Set 1: Have someone sit on the floor and tell him that you bet he can't get up by himself.

Set 2: Bet you can put your opponent's right hand where his left hand can't touch it.

Set 3: Bet that you can stand less than an inch away from someone and he won't be able to touch you.

Set 4: Bet you can put your finger in a cup of tea without getting it wet.

Set 5: Bet you have more money in your pocket than your opponent no matter how much he has.

Set 6: Get someone to stack a number of objects quite high and bet you can take off your shoes and jump over them.

Set 7: Bet you can play under water for at least a full minute.

Set 8: Bet you can put a quarter through someone's wedding ring.

Set 9: Bet you can put a dime and a penny on the table and put the penny under the dime without touching the dime.

Set 10: Bet that you know of something obtainable in another room that will go out when it comes in.

Set 11: Bet that you can put a dime and a penny on the table and put the penny under the dime without touching the dime.

Set 12: Bet that you know of something obtainable in another room that will go out when it comes in.

IT'S YOUR MOVE

White's enjoying this game so much he feels like skipping. And when White skips, it's in grand style. White takes the game on his third move when he skips over five Black pieces.

HERE'S THE THING

Let's suppose one picture is worth 10,000 words. Add 50 words, given below, and you have a 10,050-word description of the "thing" above.

This device is one of a type sunk in the Hudson River in 1777. Though sometimes placed in shallow waters, it was generally used on land. Originally it came from the Low Countries where it was devised to offset enemy cavalry.

MONTE ROBERTS

Heartiest congratulations to James Chidlow, 3670 Happy Valley Road; Ralph Willing, 3639 Happy Valley Road, and Aubrey Hall, Jacklin Road, Langford.

The reason for the congratulations is Messrs. Chidlow, Willing and Hall have been appointed as new fence viewers for the unorganized electoral district of Esquimalt.

I must admit the hearty congratulations are contaminated by a tinge of envy.

There is hardly anything in the world I would rather be than a fence viewer.

And the fact that I, too, did not receive an appointment as such cannot fail to bring severe disappointment.

For years, I have trained to be a fence viewer. In the course of preparation, I have viewed products of the Brothers Minsky, I have viewed sunsets from a reclining desk chair, I have viewed a steak simmering in the pan.

I have viewed with alarm, I have viewed with dismay.

But apparently all this training isn't good enough to qualify me as a fence viewer, even in the unorganized electoral district of Esquimalt. I take a dim view of this.

All I know is what I read in the papers. And this is what I read in one paper on Dec. 10: "Kiwans Pageant played to a large and enthusiastic audience."

And this is what I read in another paper regarding the same pageant:

"Fewer than 500 people were there. Somebody goofed." Horse races aren't the only things made by differences of opinion.

I have been trying to resist this, but unsuccessfully. Commodore Harold Groos will arrive here shortly as head man at HMCS Naden.

Capt. David Groos, of course, is now here as head man of HMCS Venture.

This will be the first time the brothers Groos have served in the same command since the war.

The question now before the house is, will they be referred to as the Groos-some Twosome?

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Reopening of a working agreement with Victoria was sought Friday by the city's outside staff, the Civic Employees' Protective Association, Local No. 50.

City manager C. C. Wyatt said he would not know what increases in pay or other benefits the workers were seeking until a meeting is called.

Joint dinner for the Multiple Sclerosis Society and the League for the Handicapped will be held in Metropolitan United Church tonight at 6:30. Persons wishing transportation should contact Fred Blakey at 4-1337.

Christmas seal campaign for the B.C. Tuberculosis Society reached $14,817 today in Greater Victoria.

Persons who have not received seals in the mail may contact headquarters in Room 14, 749 Broughton, 2-4422.

Silver Threads Handicraft Club will hold a Christmas carol party in the CCF Hall, Courtney Street, Tuesday, at 2 p.m.

Program of entertainment will be provided by members for their guests.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Who wrote "Hark the Herald Angels Sing"?—J.T.

A.—Charles Wesley (1707-1788), who was associated with his brother, John, in religious work. He wrote about 6,000 hymns, many of which remain favorites in Protestant churches today.

Q.—What do A.M. and P.M. mean after the hours?—L.F.

A.—A.M. is an abbreviation for ante meridiem (meridian) which means before midday, and P.M., short for post meridiem, meaning after midday.

Answering a question answered in the Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

A happy nonagenarian, Mrs. Susannah Perrin, 456 Chester, celebrated her 95th birthday Friday.

Mrs. Perrin enjoys shopping, knitting and helping her daughter, Mrs. L. Williams, around their home.

Current problems in the East-West education race will be described to Gyros at their Monday noon lunch meeting.

Speaker will be Dr. J. Beatty McLean, professor at Victoria College. Title will be "Education or Disaster?"

More than 1,000 ballots were spoiled by 6,000 Victorians who voted in the city election Thursday.

Returning officer Frank Hunter said Friday that 50 complete sets of ballots and 971 individual ballots were spoiled, most of them unmarked or "void because of uncertainty."

Tenant-electors were given sets of three ballots and owner-electors received sets of four ballots.

Esquimalt pioneers born here in 1886 or before have been asked to contact Coun. Jack Carey, 505 Admirals, 2-2301.

Names are being gathered now in preparation for a gathering of Greater Victoria pioneers in the Centennial year. Mr. Carey is heading the Esquimalt section of the centennial pioneer committee.

Charter Dinner Tonight for New Sertoma Club

Charter dinner for Sertoma, newest of the city's service clubs, will be held tonight at 6 in the Pacific Club.

The initial membership of 40 will be headed by president Earl Ward and vice-president Art Gousman.

Though new to Victoria Sertoma taken from "Service to Mankind," is second only to Rotary in age in the United States.

The club is the third in Canada, two others being in Vancouver and Ontario.

Food Stall, Yule Bureau Need Aid

Donations to the Surplus Food Stall and Christmas Bureau will be accepted at the stall in the Market Building from 8 a.m. to noon next Saturday, Dec. 21.

A hamper each is planned for between 400 and 500 needy families.

Needed most of all is margarine, tea and oranges, plus cash donations to purchase those little additions that go to make up Christmas.

Donations may be left at McMoran's Pavilion, Cordova Bay; the Black Swan Grocery, Patricia Bay Highway; Ross Food Market, Cadboro Bay; McNutt's Grocery, Wilkinson Road; Borden's Mercantile, Lake Hill; Victoria Meat Market, Broad and Johnson, or Scott & Peden, Cormorant.

Persons wishing donations picked up are asked to contact stall convener Mrs. E. E. Harper, 410 Vincent, telephone 3-9874.

Reserve RCAF Unit Gets 5 New Officers

Five new fighter control officers have been taken on strength of 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron, RCAF (Aux.), commanding officer Sqd. Ldr. R. D. Higgins said today.

They include PO R. H. Goodacre, 2064 Allenby, in civil life the B.C. director of public health education.

Others are PO E. J. Gravenor, 3030 Saul; PO R. Litt, 749 Island Road; PO R. D. Reid, Rocky Point, and PO D. C. Turner, 2012 Allenby.

LEARNING TRADES

About 45 non-commissioned officers and other ranks including airwomen have joined the unit over the past few weeks and are training in varied trades.

Appointment of PO M. B. Anderson, 3026 McAnally, as personnel administrative officer for the squadron was also announced.

Sqd. Ldr. Higgins said top qualified fighter controllers and fighter control operators are "a long way from being obsolete."

OFFICER-WAITERS

Sqd. Ldr. Higgins and all other officers of the squadron will be at the back and call of 100 airmen and women Monday night as the squadron holds its Christmas dinner.

Last year, 2455 Squadron was the first RCAF reserve unit to re-institute the wartime practice of the airmen's Christmas dinner, served by officers.

Turkey and trimmings will be served at RCAF Urban Centre under direction of Mrs. A. C. Erickson, president of the squadron ladies' auxiliary which will prepare the meal.

After the meal officers will be permitted to doff aprons and join in a dance for all members of the unit.

Places to Go, Things to Do Listed for Centennial Year

A guide to more than 500 places to go and things to do in British Columbia next year was released today by the British Columbia Centennial Committee.

It lists more than 125 events planned from January to December for Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands.

The Centennial Calendar of Events is prefaced with a list of highlights of happenings across the province. It gives important dates to remember in 1958; then provides for each of five regions of British Columbia's chronological list of what is going to happen, where and when.

The calendar is being distributed throughout the world through the British Columbia Centennial Committee and Provincial Government Travel Bureau.

"It also forms part of our campaign to keep British Columbians at home next year, and is being distributed to local centennial committees and other agencies in British Columbia," Lawrie Wallace, British Columbia centennial committee chairman, said.

IN RECORD BOOK

The calendar also is included in the Centennial Record Book, which features articles on industrial development of British Columbia and on its history. The first run of 50,000 copies of this book has already been sold out, mainly to large industrial firms.

Mr. Wallace noted that new events are being planned, by both the provincial and local committees, all the time. "A newer and more detailed calendar will therefore be issued early in the centennial year," he said.

The list of events for Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands starts with the appearance at Victoria Jan. 20 of famous violinist Yehudi Menuhin. It ends with a Christmas dance Dec. 25 at Cedar, near Ladysmith.

In between are large-scale productions and more local events, such as special centennial celebrations, fishing derbies, curling bonspiels, drama productions, dances, dog shows and a host of others.

T-BRICKS FOR KOREA

Aged Pensioner Sends $2 for Christianity

An old-age pensioner who believes Christianity is "our only hope" sent $2 to the "T-Bricks for Korea" fund today.

But, he wrote, "real Christianity will not be very convincing while one-third of the earth's inhabitants are living in abundance and the other two-thirds are dying from want, or barely existing."

The pensioner was one of many Victorians who boosted The Times fund to $5,938 today. Friday's donations totaled $217.

Several local groups generously lent their support to the fund, including the First Centennial Boy Scout Troop, the Empire Social Club of the

Frost Tonight; New Storm Nearing Coast

Sheltered portions of Greater Victoria will feel a touch of frost tonight, weatherman William Mackie said today.

Clearing skies tonight will send the thermometer downward, he said, and a minimum of 32 degrees is expected. Maximum Sunday will be 45 degrees.

Another storm nearing the coast will bring cloud, showers and milder weather Sunday, but there will be partial clearing by late afternoon.

Winds Sunday morning will be southeasterly at 15 miles, then will veer to westerly at a lively 25 miles Sunday afternoon.

Sentence Lifted For Shoplifter

Ronald Nelson Deyotte, 19, Brentwood, was given a suspended sentence and placed on $500 bond for good behavior the next six months when he appeared in city police court today on a charge of stealing a $23.95 sweater from Eaton's.

Magistrate H. C. Hall suspended in consideration of Deyotte's age, and the fact that his wife is expecting a child. He ordered Deyotte abstain from all alcoholic drink.

View Royal Home Damaged by Fire

Fire caused about $300 damage to walls and ceiling of a house at 263B View Royal at 5 a.m. today.

Alarm was turned in during a wind storm, but driving rain helped keep danger to a minimum.

Property is owned by A. Fieldwalker, 263A View Royal and was occupied at the time by an unidentified tenant, who recently moved in.

Mrs. Fieldwalker praised View Royal volunteer firemen for their efficiency and promptness in dealing with the fire.

Gas Sales Vote Offer Backed Up

Petition Out Monday Asking for Referendum

About 2,000 copies of a petition will be circulated in the James Bay area Monday as a service station operator backs up his offer to give the city $1,000 for a referendum on wide-open gas and oil sales.

"The city treasurer can count on getting my cheque promptly if council agrees to the referendum," A. G. Beattie said today.

Council is expected to consider his offer Monday.

Mr. Beattie ordered printing of the petition following a statement from Mayor Percy Scurrah that he would approve a referendum if the city didn't have to pay for it.

Mr. Beattie said "about a dozen" other operators will circulate petitions in their area too as the group launches its attack on the "discriminatory" new by-law requiring service stations to stay open 24 hours a day or close at 6 p.m.

"If Mr. Beattie gets the required number of signatures on a petition for a referendum, I personally would be glad to see the city accept his money and thank him for his contribution," the mayor said.

"I certainly would be influenced very much by the results of a referendum."

A referendum can be ordered by council, at the city's expense, if a petition bearing 10 per cent of the names of the current electorate—or about 2,100—requests it.

"We can get all the signatures we need and even more," Mr. Beattie said. "The city does not have to worry about my $1,000. I've got it and I'll give it to them quick."

Possible End To Pulp Strike Seen Next Week

Meeting Monday In Vancouver

Settlement of the five-week-old strike by 6,000 pulp workers, including 1,600 on Vancouver Island, may be reached next week.

Representatives from both sides are expected to meet in Vancouver Monday, for the second reopening of negotiations since the province-wide strike began Nov. 14. The first parley quickly broke down and resulted in increased picketing by the strikers.

The Vancouver talks follow private meetings with both sides by Premier W. A. C. Bennett Friday. Heavy pressure by labor and business groups have been put on the government to intervene.

However, the Monday meeting between union and management will have no government supervision.

The union struck for a 12 per cent wage increase after rejecting a majority conciliation board recommendation of 7½ per cent. Nine mills, including four on the Island, were closed.

Direct losses to the industry have amounted to about $5,000,000 in wages and about $20,000,000 in production so far.

Pedestrian Pinned Between Truck, Pole

A hot water tank was blamed for an accident which sent Gordon Mercy, 44, 3114 Doncaster, to hospital with hip and spine injuries Friday at 4:35 p.m.

Mercy was pinned between a power pole and the back of a truck, driven by Howard F. Clunk, 3150 Davin, which reversed to re-load a hot water tank which had fallen off at the intersection.

The pedestrian was standing next to the pole at the east side of a cross-walk over Hillside.

Hospital X-rays showed only slight spinal injury to Mercy and he was reported in satisfactory condition today at Jubilee.

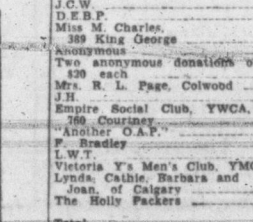

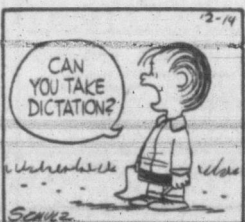

Michael Kelly, 26, 174 Egerton, HMCS Crescent, was pulled unhurt from his wrecked car after it went out of control into a power pole guy wire, turned over and had the pole land on top of it on the old Island Highway near Admirals at 1 a.m. Friday.

Police said the car went off the far side of the highway at a curve and travelled 53 yards in a ditch before colliding with the wire.

Other motorists, David Copeman, 536 Ker and Julius Sparsh, 618 Grenville, pulled Kelly from his crushed car. Kelly was shaken up.

York University Dec. 1. Aubrey Westinghouse, grandson of the inventor and manufacturer, attended with Mrs. Westinghouse, Mrs. Jack Simpson, granddaughter, Victoria, and Mr. Simpson. The party returned recently. (AP Wirephoto.)

NEWS OF CITY CHURCHES

Farewell Sermon To Be Given At Glad Tidings Tabernacle

Pastor here for six years, Rev. C. B. Smith will conduct his final services in Glad Tidings Tabernacle Sunday.

He leaves Sunday midnight with his wife and two sons to spend Christmas in Santa Cruz, Calif., with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lindblad.

From there, the Smiths will journey to Peterborough, Ont., where Mr. Smith will take up duties as president of the Eastern Pentecostal Bible College.

Mr. Smith has resigned his position as president of Victoria Ministerial Association.

Rev. A. I. Higgins was elected in his place.

A farewell reception for the Smith family was held in the church Friday night.

They received an engraved tray from the church's young people, a desk clock lamp from the deacon board and the assistant pastor, and a purse of money from the congregation.

The clips were presented to the Sunday morning Christmas story will be told by Dr. F. E. H. James. Rev. G. L. Gillard will preach at night on "God's Plan for Your Life."

At the morning service Mr. Grobe will speak on "The Bible, God's Word, Your Protection."

H. L. Hopkins will speak at services in Oaklands Chapel Sunday. His subject will be "Men Whom God Translated to Heaven Without Dying—Past and Future."

Junior choirs will provide music at a white gift service in Metropolitan United Church Sunday morning. Christmas story will be told by Dr. F. E. H. James. Rev. G. L. Gillard will preach at night on "God's Plan for Your Life."

At Victoria Truth Centre Sunday, Rev. Emma M. Smiley will speak on "The Realistic Kingdom" and "Search for God."

Assistant minister at Centennial United Church, Howard Johnston will be introduced to the congregation Sunday morning. He will preach on the subject, "The Church in a Troubled World." Rev. D. B. Carr will preach at night on "The Re-Birth of Christmas."

At First Baptist Church, Rev. G. R. Easter will speak on "The Song of the Angels" and "The Story of the Carols." Annual carol service will be held at 8:30 p.m.

Holy Communion will be celebrated in Christ Church Cathedral Sunday at 7 and 8 a.m.

Dean Brian Whitlow will preach at Choral Eucharist. Annual white gift service will be held Sunday at 3 p.m., when Rev. R. E. H. Howell will give the address. Mr. Howell will preach again at Evensong.

Rev. C. M. Hubbard will conduct Evensong in James Bay Hall at 7:30 p.m.

Breakfast in the fireside room will follow an 8 a.m. Holy Communion service in St. John's Church. Canon George Biddle will preach at all Sunday services.

The Church of Our Lord will hold a white gift service Sunday at 11 a.m. Gifts will be for needy families. Rt. Rev. D. A. G. Rankin will speak on "No Room for Them at the Inn" at the morning service.

Morning and evening worship in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will be conducted Sunday by the Very Rev. J. L. W. McLean, M.A., D.D., on the subjects, "Procession of the Gods" and "Joy to the World."

Rev. A. C. Hamill will preach in Emmanuel Baptist Church Sunday on "See the Christ as Meek and Lowly" and "He Came in the Fullness of Time." Parade of youth groups in uniform will attend the morning white gift service.

"God is Calling Men Today" and "Paul, the Man From Tarsus" will be Rev. Cecil Barner's subjects at Douglas Street Baptist Church Sunday.

Christmas cantata "While Shepherds Watched" will be presented by the church choir at First Church of the Nazarene Sunday night. Soloists will be Lorey Hunt and Mrs. Bruce Fleming. Mrs. Carl Bitterman and Mrs. John Turner will sing duets and a male quartet will be composed of A. Grobe, B. Fleming, C. Bitterman and L. Hunt. Rev. Arthur F. Grobe will direct music and Mrs. Grobe will be pianist.

Too young to join Brownies, five-year-old Cheryl, right, happily hugged Robin, six, who invited her to have her picture taken, too. Heather, eight years old, looks on.

Tears were brushed aside for a smiling Cub Scout salute when Times photographer, Bill Halkett, assured eight-year-old Glenn, a bed patient, that he could have his picture in the newspaper.

Patients at Queen Alexandra Solarium Find Fellowship in Recreational Program

By KITT DIXON

The kids at Queen Alexandra Solarium for Crippled Children can't light camp fires or go on cross-country hikes, yet they've got one of the peppiest Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, Cubs and Brownies companies on the Island.

A peek into their clubrooms during a Saturday morning session is proof enough. You've never seen youngsters play games or join in singing with more enthusiasm!

Maybe it's because wearing uniforms and belonging to an organized group is new to them. At any rate, they certainly make the most of this opportunity to forget they are hospital patients.

They owe it all to Mrs. James McKeivitt. She felt Solarium youngsters were missing an important phase of childhood, so she obtained permission from Vancouver headquarters to organize a group of Scouts, Guides, Cubs and Brownies leaders to visit the Solarium each week.

Says Mrs. McKeivitt: "Our program for school-age children has proved a wonderful success!"

Even patients confined to bed are permitted to belong. And although they wear only the tops of their uniforms, they wear them proudly.

Those in bed are wheeled into the clubrooms where "up" patients are assembled for opening color ceremonies . . . and the meeting begins promptly at 10 a.m. each Saturday.

Guides, one Boy Scout, Brownies and Cubs all participate in the same opening and closing ceremonies, but divide into groups for games, lessons and tests. There is a unique company in which fellowship and unity abound in a capacity one wouldn't expect from children so young.

It's because they have to help each other. For example: to make "nature books" as part of their Brownie training, little girls able to go outdoors collect enough leaves and flowers for those confined to the hospital. Such a deed is always cheerfully reciprocated.

Without knowing it, Solarium children are doing much more than helping each other with nature books and knots. They are becoming happy, well-adjusted citizens.

Leaders of the Solarium company are Mrs. McKeivitt, Mrs. A. E. Greenwood, Mrs. J. R. Walker, Mrs. Roland M. Brown, Mrs. Ron Frampton, Miss Gail McKeivitt, Miss Ann Dickens, Bill Greenhalgh, George Vanderkrack and Miss Charlotte Ann Baade.

Scout and Cub leader, Bill Greenhalgh, salutes the Union Jack with Solarium Scouts, Guides, Cubs and Brownies as they take part in opening color ceremonies.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

Holiday Invitations Bring Up Question—What to Wear?

By NONA DAMASKE

Most women have a fashion problem now and then but it seems at this time of year that difficulties arise a little more frequently.

The holiday season brings an unusual number of social activities and for the lady of the house the first thought, when considering an invitation is "what will I wear?"

A good place to begin a discussion of holiday clothes is the coffee party . . . apart from a very rare occasion when friends meet for breakfast this 11 a.m. gathering for a glass of sherry, refreshments, and coffee is the first function of the day.

It is relatively simple to plan your clothes for these get-togethers—a simple wool dress, soft suit, or tailored silk are all most acceptable. Quiet understated clothes are best for early day functions . . . don't overdress . . . wear a hat and you should be quite comfortable.

Nona

Luncheon parties, whether in a home, hotel or restaurant call also for quiet good taste. The décolleté type of dress is not at all suitable for any luncheon gathering. Here, your hat is the most important accessory. For the most part your costume is somewhat hidden as you sit at a table, but your hat is there in all its glory. If you have a fondness for larger hats this is your golden opportunity. If you are wearing a dark dress or suit you may want to wear a brilliant blue or vivid fuchsia. Go ahead . . . remember your hat is the focal point at this time.

Cocktail parties and dinner parties vary a great deal and it is quite difficult to keep to hard and fast rules. However, one good rule when you have no way of ascertaining what other women are wearing is to be underdressed rather than overdressed.

Your ball gown can be the dress of your dreams. Here you can let your love of femininity and frills run rampant. You may choose almost any material . . . the richer the better . . . chiffon . . . satin brocade or velvet.

"Candlelight" . . . gleaming satin, cleverly manipulated in soft folds, this head-hugging turban by Nadelle is so right for informal holiday cocktail parties.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Nine Shopping Days to Go; Shop Now and Then Relax

By PENNY SAVER

It's unbelievable! I mean, the way time flies by. Counting on my fingers, I find there's only nine short shopping days to Christmas . . . whew! If you're one of those persons leaving your shopping right to the end . . . don't, don't! Why not get it all done so there'll be lots of time to decorate the Christmas tree and the house with ease?

For a last minute shopping idea, you should see the latest in hasty notes. A well-known local artist has come up with a series of sketches to enhance the front of the notes.

The sketches are done of landmarks in Victoria and surrounding districts. Printed on small white cards, a box of these notes would be a different gift, or you could use them as Christmas cards (if you haven't sent yours . . . shame!)

And they're lovely for sending overseas to relations and friends who wonder about the scenes of our fair city. They've just come out, and are selling at $1 a box. Oh yes! There's 12 in a box!

Here's a practical idea for mother's stocking! You know how milk bottles often become wet on the outside making handling of them particularly precarious. What could be more annoying than to pick up a slippery bottle and have it drop to the floor with a crash! And you only just washed the floor! I think a set of bottle huggers is what you need. These foam rubber covers can be pulled over the top of the container.

They come in a variety of pastel colors at $1.95 apiece.

Memories, Notebooks and Writing Heritage of Gray Owl's Daughter

By ELIZABETH FORBES

The pungent smell of buckskins, worn smooth and soft from long wear; the faint outline of a lean, sensitive face; the stool she sat on and the bouquet of roses she held when she had her picture taken with him for the first and last time.

These are the tenuous memories of her father that Mrs. L. G. McKay, 351 Michigan Street, cherishes today.

More tangible mementos are a thick album of pictures taken of her parents in the northern wilds and on their lecture tours, the published nature books her father wrote and eight fat notebooks filled with bits and pieces (never published) that give her a feeling of kinship with this man she hardly knew.

A man, however, who left her a proud heritage for he was that Englishman who, despite his blue eyes, made the world believe he was an Indian.

He wore Indian clothes. He lived with the Indians in his youth. He adopted their ways and for the full span of his life he fought for their rights.

Wa-Sha-Quon-Asin (Grey Owl) — "He Who Travels By Night" they named him.

A decade ago Grey Owl's

story was familiar to every school child in Canada and to a good many parents.

Brought up in England by two strict maiden aunts, he emigrated to Canada when he was 17.

A fellow passenger on the Atlantic crossing was William Cody (Buffalo Bill) who told the impressionable youth stories of the plains and the Indians.

"Love of the wild must have been in him from the beginning," Mrs. McKay says "but this contact with Buffalo Bill brought it into the open."

INDIAN LORE

In Ontario the young man joined a group of guides who taught him all they knew of woods lore. He was adopted by the Objibway tribe of Indians and it was from them he received his name and the right to be called a Chief.

He married a beautiful young girl who was part Mohawk and together they came west to Alberta, where he accepted a position as caretaker of a provincial park and game reserve in the northern part of the province.

"It was in that park in the cabin in which they lived that my father began his study of the Canadian beaver," Mrs. McKay says quietly.

A smile touches her mobile lips as she explains—"Because my father could not be disturbed when he was studying the wild animal life and writing his stories, I was brought up by a foster mother in Prince Albert.

"My parents came to see me each time they were in the town for supplies but I did not go up to the cabin very often. Only once or twice, that I can remember."

Her brown eyes twinkle as she tells you of the beaver family at the cabin.

They had a dam with one outlet right in the corner of the Gray Owl cabin "so my father could watch them."

The patriarch of the family was Jelly Roll. "My father and Jelly Roll loved and understood each other."

Gray Owl died when Mrs. McKay was only five years old. Her mother married again and went to Calgary to live so the little Dawn (Dawn-deen in the Indian language—"Dawn of the Morning") continued to live with her foster mother in Prince Albert.

The business of going to school and then of earning a living occupied much of her time, but she never forgot the tall man in buckskins.

LOVE OF OUTDOORS

And in her teens a love of the outdoors, inherited from both her parents, grew and blossomed.

"I began to go into the northern woods myself," she says, "and I found that, although I had been brought up a city girl, like my parents I could be happy alone in the wilderness."

It was then that she began to delve deeper into the bulky notebooks that recorded Gray Owl's thoughts and his beliefs.

"He was a gifted man," she says proudly, "he could not have written the way he did otherwise."

Marriage (her husband is in the Canadian navy) and the birth of her two children, Glaze Stanfield, 3, and Sandra, 2, put the notebooks in the background for a few years.

"But now, with the children growing, I have more leisure again."

"The story of my father's life is rooted deep in the Canadian northland. It has the song of the beaver and the story of the Canadian Indian woven into it."

"I would like to see that story recorded in some way for all the world to read and to know."

NAVAL WEDDING

Bride Wears Pink Chiffon Velvet For Vows in St. George the Martyr

Exquisite shell pink chiffon velvet created a wedding gown for Barbara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Rennie, when she entered the Church of St. George the Martyr, this afternoon, to become the bride of Sub. Lt. Richard T. Wilson, HMCS Skeena, son of Mrs. M. H. Wilson, Thornhill, Ont.

Skirt of the especially-designed bridal gown swept in regal fullness to a graceful train. Fitted bodice was of low torso design. A circular chapel veil bordered with lace was held in place by a Juliet cap of matching velvet and a single green orchid topped the bride's prayer book. For "something old," she carried an heirloom handkerchief of Italian lace.

Identical floor-length gowns of forest green velvet were worn by attendants, Mrs. J. Harwood, matron of honor; Mrs. W. Thomas, bridesmatron, and Miss Joan Rennie, sister of the bride, bridesmaid. They wore matching draped hats and carried cascade bouquets of pale pink and white chrysanthemums.

Marion Smith, flower girl, wore a similar frock with matching hat and carried a miniature bouquet.

Sub. Lt. E. Sande was best man and Lieut. W. Thomas, Lieut. R. Fortin, Lieut. G. Van Sickle and Lieut. J. Buchan were ushers.

Baskets of pastel pink chrysanthemums decorated the church for the service, conducted by Rev. William Hills, Organist was Malcolm Hamilton. Congregation sang the processional, "Praise My Soul, the King of Heaven."

For receiving guests at a reception in Old Charming Inn, mother of the bride wore a midnight blue brocade ensemble with pink brocade hat. Mother of the groom chose a bottle-green lace ensemble with matching hat trimmed with flat green and red flowers.

Toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. G. Douglas Kennedy, uncle of the bride. The newlyweds used the groom's sword to cut a three-tier wedding cake which was surrounded by pale pink roses.

For "going away," the bride donned a teal blue cashmere and wool ensemble with matching hat and brown accessories. Sub-Lieut. and Mrs. Wilson will live in Victoria.

Red Holly, White Chrysanthemums Setting for Pre-Christmas Vows

Full-berried holly and white chrysanthemums decorated St. John's Anglican Church for one of the first weddings of the Christmas season today.

bride of Sub-Lt. Kenneth Sinclair Foster, HMCS Cayuga, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John R. Foster, Indian Head, Sask., in a service conducted by Canon George Biddle.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride was a lovely picture in her full-length gown of heavy taffeta brocade styled on princess lines with back fullness sweeping into a chapel train. Round neckline of her gown dipped to a V at back. Her fingertip veil of illusion tulle was held by a crown of fresh white rosebuds and she carried an all-white cascade bouquet of gardenias, rosebuds and feathered carnations, with a few strands of ivy. Her only jewelry was her mother's string of pearls.

SCARLET GOWNS

A quartet of attendants wearing gowns of scarlet peau d'amour preceded the bride up the aisle. Gowns were styled on princess lines with back fullness and round necklines dipping to V's at back. They wore long white gloves, white feathered bandeaux and carried bouquets of feathered white chrysanthemums centred with holly berries and surrounded by holly leaves.

Maid of honor was Miss Michie Cox and bridesmaids were Miss Elizabeth Harrison, who designed and made all the gowns, Miss Alix Husband and Miss San Smith.

Flower girl, Miss Maureen Luney, niece of the bride, wore a short, white-dotted Swiss organdy dress with full, gathered skirt and sash of red peau d'amour. She carried a basket of flowers to match the bridesmaids' bouquets.

NADEN RECEPTION

Reception was held at the wardroom, HMCS Naden which was decorated with white chrysanthemums and holly with tall candelabra. Charles Cox proposed the toast to the bride and the newlyweds cut a four-tier wedding cake topped with tiny rosebuds.

For travelling on honeymoon to Harrison Hot Springs, the new Mrs. Foster wore a beige wool dress with chocolate brown accessories and brown fur jacket. She wore a beige hat and corsage of gardenias and Talsman rosebuds.

Greater Responsibilities Coming For Women Says Mrs. Fairclough

TORONTO (CP)—Secretary of State Ellen Fairclough Thursday predicted the next 10 years will see "great changes in the acceptance of women in responsible posts."

Canada's first woman federal cabinet minister told the Empire Club's "ladies day" luncheon most of Canada already has adopted equal pay for equal work legislation. But the principle of equal opportunity for women had not yet generally been accepted.

"It is my opinion that women themselves must show their willingness to accept responsibility to a greater degree than they have done heretofore."

Some women had hesitated to offer themselves for election to provincial legislatures or the House of Commons because of the distance they must travel to discharge their duties. But about 1,200 women now served on municipal governments. More were contributing through non-elective posts and voluntary work in local, national and international organizations.

Reasons often given for not admitting women to certain groups included the plea that men "sometimes talked in 'rather rich language' and that women tended to monopolize conversations."

Speaking from 12 years' experience in elective posts—often as the lone woman in a group of men who "pulled no punches"—Mrs. Fairclough assured her audience "... in that whole period I never learned one new word."

She made a crisp "no comment" to the second allegation. The statements were included in a text of the speech issued to the press before delivery.

Johnston-Bailey Wedding Vows Spoken in Nanaimo

Baskets of white and yellow chrysanthemums decorated St. Andrew's United Church at Nanaimo for the marriage of Mary Marguerite Victoria (Maureen), only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Johnston, Nanaimo, to Piers Vernon Ross Bailey, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bailey, Victoria. Rev. Wm. Van Druten officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina-length gown of white silk taffeta with crinoline skirt and fitted bodice of French lace topped by a French lace bolero with stand-up collar and three-quarter-length sleeves. Bridal headpiece was of net-trimmed with brilliant from which filmed a chapel-length veil. She carried a white orchid on a white ribbon.

Only attendant, Mrs. John S. C. Johnston, matron of honor, wore a turquoise gown styled with silk taffeta skirt and a bodice of shirred chiffon. She had a matching headpiece with veil trim, and carried a bouquet of yellow feathered chrysanthemums.

Best man was Jack Utting, Seattle, and the ushers were Wolfgang Thiersch and Roger Bailey, both of Vancouver. During the signing of the register Dr. Douglas Kirkbride sang "O Perfect Love." Mrs. Mary Newbury was organist. A reception was held at the golf club. For receiving the guests the mother of the bride wore a blue wool crepe gown with lace bodice, dark blue and pink accessories, while the groom's mother wore a rose beige lace sheath with rose accessories. William Cochrane gave the blessing before the supper. John S. C. Johnston, brother of the bride, introduced

Highway Traffic Death Inquest Off to January

NANAIMO—Inquest into the death of Reg Patterson, Victoria sportsman killed Thursday night in a head-on highway crash north of Nanaimo, convened Friday night, then was postponed to January.

Langford Man Principal Of New School

LANGFORD—George Gurney, president of Sooke Teachers' Association and staff member at Langford Elementary School, has been appointed by Sooke School Board as principal of the new Sangster School to be opened in mid-January.

Two of the three rooms of the school will be put to use as soon as they are ready to relieve crowding at Colwood School and end the holding of classes in Colwood Scout Hall.

Two teachers will leave Colwood, with one going to the new school and the other to Langford to replace Mr. Gurney.

Mr. Gurney started teaching in the Prince George area, and in his six years with Sooke School Board spent two years at Harris Creek and four at Langford. His new school is at Lagoon and Metchosin Roads.

Mr. Patterson's car was in collision with the car of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Auer of Wellington, on the Island Highway three miles north of Nanaimo. Mrs. Auer was killed, and Mr. Auer, a 52-year-old turkey farmer, is on the critical list in Nanaimo General Hospital.

Firm date for the inquest will depend on Mr. Auer's recovery. The one inquest will consider the deaths of both Mr. Patterson and Mrs. Auer.

A second inquest opened here Friday night into the death of Alexander W. Thomas, 79, Wellington pensioner, killed Thursday night when in collision with a small car on the highway about two miles beyond the scene of the Patterson-Auer fatality.

A jury was empanelled, then dismissed until Friday at 7.30 p.m., when evidence will be heard.

LANGFORD—Annual Christmas turkey dinner of Langford "50-Up" Club will be held Wednesday at 6 p.m. in Fellowship Hall of Gordon United Church, Goldstream Avenue.

A program has been prepared that will include a short play, singing, and recitations by club members.

New officers of the club are A. Glover, president; W. J. Fynn, vice-president; Mrs. R.

Harris, second vice-president; P. Reid, secretary.

Committee conveners are Mrs. J. Dale, publicity; Mrs. D. Robb, refreshments; John Ellis, sick visiting; R. Harris, transportation; Mrs. Harris, public relations; Mr. Fynn, entertainment; and Mrs. K. Laird and Mrs. H. Simpson, pianists.

Tickets for the forthcoming dinner can be obtained from Mr. Glover or Mr. Reid.

NEW PREMISES of the Douglas and Cormorant branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce will open Monday following transfer of staff, funds and equipment from the former offices at 1601 Douglas.

ISLAND VIEWPOINT

One Version

PARKSVILLE-QUALICUM BEACH PROGRESS

Only a few weeks ago a former Canadian football referee was soundly berated by many well-known figures in the sports world for declaring that brutality was all too prominent in many games played today.

Regrettably, many of the protests came from those associated with sports long enough to know that as far as certain games are concerned the former referee had hit the nail right on the head.

We have had far too many serious injuries in hockey, soccer and football. The will to win is all too often the predominating factor in the contest; the "friendly competition" theme is all but forgotten in the mad rush to win this or that cup.

Good Spirits

SIDNEY REVIEW—The Christmas season is notoriously the season of good spirits, when differences, even political differences are forgotten and forgiven and every man is his neighbor's brother. This aspect can be misdirected to a too substantial interpretation.

When the season of good spirits sees them quaffed in profusion the spirits may well be at a lower ebb the following morning. Lower still are the spirits of those who come afterwards.

One Sidney resident was faced with the replacement of two tires on his car recently after driving over a carelessly cast bottle on the streets.

Good spirits are excellent while in the bottle or in the heart. Left on the street they are a liability to the community and the good-spirited citizens should avoid relinquishing their used bottles in this manner.

Deal Succeeds

COWICHAN LEADER—Coinciding with announcement of reduced down payments for homes to be built or purchased under federal housing legislation is another Ottawa dispatch destined to mean growth for Duncan and district—up to 162 lots will be prepared by government agency on land to be taken over from Cowichan Indians.

The two announcements add up to favorable news for this community. No one would be optimistic enough to declare that that number of homes will be built immediately on the property. There is, however, reasonable grounds for thinking that lack of suitable building sites has held back development of the Duncan urban area in recent years, during the district's unprecedented industrial construction boom.

The deal marks a good piece of business by the city council. Moreover, it sets a precedent in this region for the acquisition outright of Indian land by an organized urban community. The circumstances proved propitious and an agreement has been reached. That fact will stand above all the conjectures, forecasts, difficulties and discussions in the months ahead.

Boost Shop Hours For Yule Season

CHEMAINUS—North Cowichan council passed a resolution this week authorizing stores in the municipality to stay open until 9 p.m. Monday, Dec. 23, and Monday, Dec. 30.

Under a municipal by-law, stores normally are required to close at noon Monday. The resolution will permit merchants to make the most of pre-Christmas and pre-New Year shopping.

DOORS OPEN MONDAY

Armed Men to Guard Bank's Moving Day

An armed police guard will superintend the transfer of funds from the Douglas and Cormorant branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce to its new premises on the opposite corner of Cormorant Street this weekend.

The new building—a square, white-fronted structure directly facing the city hall—will open to the public at 10 a.m. Monday following the transfer of money, equipment and staff from the old premises at 1601 Douglas.

To take care of its expanding business, the branch will have 40 per cent more floor space in the new building and a total staff of 23, including five Chinese tellers.

ZIG-ZAG COUNTERS

Making for ease of operation and more privacy for customers are eight sawtooth counters—five for savings and three for current accounts. The sawtooth counter follows a zig-zag pattern, so that customers stand one behind another when doing business at the windows.

Bright and modern in appearance, the new bank is fitted with oak veneer counters, indirect lighting and an acoustical ceiling to deaden noise.

Deposits will be stored in a heavily protected, high-ceilinged vault at the rear of the premises and there is an extra vault for ledgers and vouchers.

On the second floor the bank has a ladies' powder room opening on to a roof terrace and a lunchroom for men and women employees fitted with double hotplate and refrigerator.

GROWTH ANTICIPATED

A large soundproof room at the rear end of the bank houses several large ledger-posting machines—each of them worth the price of a new car.

"We are confident our customers will like the new building," Ernest C. Brown, branch manager, said today. "It was badly needed to take care of our expanding business and, with an eye to the future, we have provided for a potential staff of 30."

G. A. Mark, assistant superintendent of the Bank of Commerce for British Columbia, will visit the building on Monday. The bank has eight offices in the Greater Victoria area.

Secret Agent

In most households, great expectations for Christmas are voiced for all to hear—starting about November 1. However, it's frequently convenient to get it in writing—so may we recommend a letter to Santa? Whether you have to write it, or just read it over before mailing, it blows the gaff completely. Drop it in the special box at EATON'S, or mail it to Santa, North Pole, c/o EATON'S. He answers every letter he gets, as long as there's an address inside.

Ho Ho—Photo

Talking of Santa, what would Christmas be without a photo of our bearded friend? He is in residence at EATON'S (Main Floor, House Furnishings Building), from 10 to 12, 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 Wednesday and Friday, 10 to 12 and 2 to 4 Thursday and Saturday. Every little visitor receives a gift from Santa—and a picture is taken to record the magic moment. One print in Christmas folder, is yours for 48¢ (plus tax), or three in separate folders for 1.24 (plus tax).

Tote the Tot from the Lot! If you're doing your shopping with toddler (or non-toddler) in tow the smart thing to do is to borrow a baby stroller from us. Leave your car at either of our convenient lots, ask at the office for a stroller, then amble at your leisure to the store. If you're in the store already you may borrow your stroller from the Parcel Check on the Lower Main Floor. Makes shopping ten times easier—try it!

Dry Seats—Big Eats

These are the demands of the diaper set, voiced (very loudly) by an anonymous spokesman. Both can be arranged by calling into the Ladies' Rest Room on EATON'S Third Floor. There you'll find a convenient Nursery Nook, with counter space where diaper may be changed with speed ease, and privacy... and his (or her) Highness may guzzle their grub without distraction.

NATO Can Meet Russ Challenge Says Ike in Paris

Stronger Bonds Aim —John D.

PARIS (CP)—Canadian Prime Minister Diefenbaker arrived here today for next week's NATO summit conference and said he expects the meeting to "strengthen the bonds of the Allies."

He told airport reporters, "I think there will be a redeclaration of principles in NATO's cultural, political, economic and military fields. Otherwise freedom will not survive."

Diefenbaker, who flew here from Ottawa for his first NATO conference, said he had an excellent trip, adding "I slept all the way."

FLEMING DUE

With External Affairs Minister Smith and Gen. Charles Foulkes, chairman of the Canadian chiefs of staff, already in Paris, the Canadian delegation will be completed Monday with the arrival of Finance Minister Donald Fleming, who delayed his departure to steer his tax legislation through the Commons.

Diefenbaker was met by Smith, Jean Desy, Canadian ambassador to France; L. D. Wilgress, Canada's representative to NATO, and George Drew, Canadian high commissioner in London.

Diefenbaker said this is the first time he has been in France since becoming prime minister and he considers it a privilege to be back in "this beautiful country, this heroic country, this culture country—one of our two motherlands."

RELATIONS STRONGER

Diefenbaker drove straight to the Canadian ambassador's residence. Canadian officials said he will confer Sunday with Prime Minister Macmillan.

Speaking before microphones at the airport, the Canadian leader said:

"I am happy to acknowledge the warm reception today from the representatives of the Republic of France and to assure them that our relations will ever continue to be stronger as the years go by."

The prime minister was accompanied on the RCAF C-54 flight from the Canadian capital by Defence Minister G. R. Pearkes. His external affairs minister arrived Friday.

Under State Control

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—The Indonesian news agency Antara said today authoritative quarters reported almost all Dutch businesses in Indonesia now are under state control.

'BE PREPARED' WARNS 'ROCKY'

MONTREAL (CP)—The man who commanded Canada's forces in Korea says North America could be the battleground for a third world war, "if the balloon goes up."

Maj.-Gen. J. M. "Rocky" Rockingham told a press conference Friday night "we must be prepared for anything."

He takes over today as general officer commanding Quebec army command, succeeding Maj.-Gen. J. P. E. Bernatchez.

Early Merger Action Sought by Reeve Ash

Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash today called for a meeting next month between the municipality and the city to work out a common approach before requesting the provincial government to set up a royal commission on amalgamation.

"It is my hope and desire that a meeting will take place early in the new year between Mayor Percy Scurrell and myself along with representatives of both councils to discuss ways and means of taking immediate action in approaching the government," Reeve Ash, re-elected to a two-year term Thursday, said.

"We should ask the provincial government's co-operation to inaugurate an investigation as soon as possible that would result in a plan being formulated."

Pearson Tells Of Norway Visit

Lester B. Pearson, who made a historic address on world peace in Oslo, Norway, Wednesday after receiving the Nobel Peace Prize, writes today on Page 4 an entertaining article on his experiences in the Scandinavian country and its associations with Canada.

OKAY BUT AGED

Words Slurred By Eisenhower

PARIS (UP)—President Eisenhower stumbled at least twice during his arrival speech today and observers who last saw him here five years ago commented openly that he was aged.

But the slurring of several words and a more moderate than usual walking pace were the only signs that might have reflected the United States president's recent illness—an illness that almost prevented his attendance at next week's crucial meeting of NATO countries.

Eisenhower kept his hat on and donned glasses to read his speech. But, aside from slight stumbling over occasional words, there was nothing that indicated a sick man. His voice was firm, vigorous and resonant and he read rapidly and without hesitation.

Dave Beck Convicted

SEATTLE (AP)—Dave Beck, millionaire president of the teamsters, was convicted today by a jury of seven men and five housewives of stealing $1,900 from the sale of a union-owned automobile. He was charged with grand larceny.

Minister 'Unaware'

OTTAWA (BUP)—Health Minister J. W. Monteith said today that he was "unaware" that old age pensioners in British Columbia had not yet received their $9 increase in their old age pension checks at the end of November.

Nine Killed as Blast Rips Scottish Mine

KELTY, Scotland (AP)—An underground explosion today at the Lindsay Colliery killed nine men and injured seven others.

Several of the injured miners were able to walk unaided out of the pit. Rescue workers reported that the men who were killed were working at the coal face.

Cause of the explosion was not known.

It was the third pit disaster in Britain within a month. Seventeen miners were killed Nov. 20 in an explosion at a coal mine in Muirkirk, Scotland. A week later, another explosion occurred at a coal mine in Maryport, England, killing two men.

LONDON (Reuters)—Wolverhampton Wanderers today stretched their lead in the First Division of the English Soccer League to six points with a come-from-behind 4-3 victory over lowly Sheffield Wednesday.

A penalty goal by Edwin Clamp late in the game broke a 3-3 tie and gave the Wanderers their 10th victory in 11 home games this season. The other home game ended in a draw.

Second-place West Bromwich Albion had its chances of overtaking Wolverhampton dimmed when it was whipped 5-1 by Luton Town. Defending champion Manchester United also bowed 1-0 to Chelsea.

Missile Fund Shortage Hit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris testified today lack of funds held up U.S. Army development of a 1,500-mile missile. And he said that even now the United States is doing virtually no work on a rocket engine as powerful as Russia already has perfected.

Medaris also said:

1. Army scientists offered two years ago to put up an earth satellite but their offer was rejected.
2. The army has solved in two tests the "re-entry problem" of bringing missile nose cones back to earth through atmospheric friction. Only one test had been disclosed heretofore.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Almighty God, Thou strong rock of our defence, we lean trustingly upon Thine arms of love and depend on Thee for courage to face the troubles of these days. We fear no danger when Thou art by our side. Dark shadows lose their menace when Thou dost lead the way. Lead on O King eternal. We follow without fear; in Christ's name. Amen.

Summit Talks Begin Monday

PARIS (CP)—President Eisenhower declared today that the NATO alliance can meet the "despotic and continuing threat" of Soviet Russia.

Arriving for the summit NATO meeting opening Monday, he told a thin airport crowd of 200 persons the West must meet Russia's space-age challenge or lose its freedom.

After a welcome to France from President Rene Coty and Premier Felix Gaillard, Eisenhower made the keynote statement of his Paris mission. Speaking on the cold, windswept Orly Field, Eisenhower said:

"Today we live in one of those periods of test not only for France but all of France's friends and allies, my country among them. It is for us, together, to determine whether men shall continue to live in freedom and in dignity or whether they are to become mere vassals of an all-powerful state."

The answer to this challenge, he said, is the development of a "true partnership" in "spiritual, military and economic strength."

MAC ARRIVES FOR PARLEY

PARIS (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan arrived by night ferry train from London today and said that the NATO summit conference will increase "the faith and power" of the Allies in the modern world.

The statement was Eisenhower's first public speech since his slight stroke Nov. 25.

In his prepared speech, Eisenhower expressed confidence that the 15-nation alliance could meet the "despotic and continuing threat from the East" in an effective manner.

5,000 French Police on Guard

He predicted that they would not only strengthen their protective shield of NATO military forces but also reinforce other aspects of the coalition as well.

An estimated 5,000 French police turned out to guard Eisenhower during his arrival.

The police guarded the airport and the crowd-lined route to the U.S. embassy where Eisenhower will stay until his return home next Thursday.

"The heads of NATO are meeting in this beautiful Paris to analyze the challenge we now face," Eisenhower said.

"We shall meet it effectively. We shall meet it in unity."

"We all know that fear alone has neither the power nor the nobility to fulfill the ultimate destiny of the Atlantic community. Therefore, we shall be striving not only to strengthen the NATO shield, but we shall also address ourselves to other aspects of our alliance. We are all confident that in the supreme strength of balanced

Atomic Missiles for Allies

Eisenhower arrived with an offer of atomic missiles for allied armies and an appeal for greater unity in the North Atlantic coalition.

He faces trouble on both issues.

The trip to Europe is Eisenhower's second as president. But in contrast with his 1955 mission to negotiate with Russia, this time he will seek to rally the Western Alliance against Russia's bid for dominance in the dawn era of pushbutton weapons.

Eisenhower was scheduled to begin his talks this afternoon with French Premier Felix Gaillard at the U.S. Embassy. Gaillard wants U.S. and British support for France's position in North Africa.

France and the other European countries would like a decisive voice in the control of any U.S. nuclear weapons to be stockpiled in Europe.

The United States has drafted nine proposals for NATO action which in broad outline at least already have been made known to the other 14 member nations. Chief among them are:

1. The United States is prepared to stockpile nuclear warheads for intermediate range 1,500-mile missiles in European countries, under the command of the U.S. commander in Europe, Gen. Lauris Norstad, who also is supreme commander of NATO forces.

2. NATO should have a science office headed by a scientific adviser to Secretary-General Paul-Henri Spaak. A committee should be created on the pooling of scientific information.

3. More emphasis should be placed on producing weapons of advanced design and promoting weapons standardization.

WALL FALLS ON FANS AT SOCCER; 1 KILLED

GLASGOW, Scotland (UP)—An infield wall collapsed today on nearly 100 football fans watching a professional soccer game in Shawfield Park Stadium and dozens were hurt, many of them children.

First police reports said one child was killed and between 80 and 100 persons were injured, about 50 of them children. The wall surrounding the field collapsed on them in the midst of play.

Ambulances shuttled the injured to nearby hospitals. The game, between the Scottish First-Division teams of Clyde and Celtic, was held up for 20 minutes.

Britain's Princess Margaret makes a pretty picture as she flashes a warm smile against background of a cold December day in London. The 27-year-old Princess wears a mink coat and matching hat in wintry weather. Princess Margaret will visit B.C. next year for the centennial celebrations.

Old Fashioned Variety To Boost T-Brick Fund

By DINAH KERR

Keynote of the "T-Bricks for Korea" benefit show at the Odeon Theatre Sunday night will be variety—with a capital "V."

Where else would one find emcee Hans Gruber, conductor of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, rubbing elbows with a jazz quartet, or concert tenor Del Rogers appearing on a program between Highland dancer Heather Duncan and "The Lassie from Lancashire" Irene Henderson?

What other show gives you Jerry Gosley and Len Evans in a comedy routine, "A Lesson in Golf," two acts before Moyra Mulholland reads from the works of Charles Dickens?

The show, arranged by Smile Show's Jerry Gosley, starts at 9 p.m.

"The Matador"—Irene Henderson and accordionist Al Denoni.

Comic imitations—Len Carlson, radio and TV entertainer.

The Nite-Hawks—three-guitar harmony with Ron Jenkins, Tom Craycroft and Norm Wingquist.

"A Lesson in Golf"—Jerry Gosley and Len Evans.

Christmas song—Irene Henderson.

Accordian music—Al Denoni.

Audience carol-singing—accompanied by Reg Stone.

See you there!

D. P. McDONALD NAMED CHIEF BY WESTCOAST

VANCOUVER (CP)—D. P. McDonald, QC, president of the Western Canada Hockey League from 1945 to 1950, has been appointed managing director of Westcoast Transmission Company Limited, the company announced today.

Mr. McDonald, who is also vice-president and chief counsel for Westcoast, will be responsible for the overall operations of the gas pipeline system, the company statement said.

Born in Rossland, B.C., Mr. McDonald graduated in law from the University of Alberta in 1928.

EUROPE COUNCIL

British Move On Free Trade Gets Approval

PARIS (Reuters)—The 15 foreign ministers of the Council of Europe today approved a British resolution aimed at the creation of a European free trade area.

The resolution, presented by British Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd, was approved by the closing meeting of the council's two-day session.

The resolution welcomed the decision of the 17-nation Organization for European Economic Co-operation to negotiate the establishment of the area and to charge Reginald Maundling, British paymaster-general, to lead these negotiations.

Today's resolution calls for renewed consideration of future relations between the two organizations.

The members of the Council of Europe are Belgium, Britain, Denmark, France, West Germany, Greece, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg, Holland, Norway, Sweden and Turkey. The Saar is an associate member.

The free trade area plan aims at removing trade barriers to industrial exports on a European-wide basis.

The main subjects of debate have been the status of agricultural exports and how overseas territories of member states should be associated with it.

Toronto Tely Boosts Price Of Daily to 10c

TORONTO (CP)—The Telegram announced today an increase in its weekday price to 10 cents from five, effective Monday.

The price for home delivery will be increased to 60 cents a week from 35 cents. Price of the enlarged Saturday edition remains at 10 cents.

The Telegram is the seventh Canadian newspaper to announce an increase to 10 cents. All three Toronto newspapers will cost 10 cents as of Sunday.

Publisher John Bassett, Jr., of The Telegram, said the increase is due to the mounting cost of materials and production. He said: "We believe that a daily newspaper is at least worth as much as a cup of coffee or a telephone call."

LIQUOR STORE HOURS JUGGLED FOR HOLIDAY

B.C. Liquor Control Board will juggle hours at liquor stores during the Christmas rush.

All stores will close at 6 p.m. Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve and will be closed all of Boxing Day.

The Esquimalt Road store, which normally closes at 6 p.m., will remain open until 9 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 21, and Monday, Dec. 23.

The Humboldt and Johnson Street stores will close at their regular 11 p.m. time Dec. 23, 27 and 30.

MONTE ROBERTS

Heartiest congratulations to James Chidlow, 3670 Happy Valley Road; Ralph Willing, 3639 Happy Valley Road, and Aubrey Hall, Jacklin Road, Langford.

The reason for the congratulations is Messrs. Chidlow, Willing and Hall have been appointed as new fence viewers for the unorganized electoral district of Esquimalt.

I must admit the hearty congratulations are contaminated by a tinge of envy.

There is hardly anything in the world I would rather be than a fence viewer.

And the fact that I, too, did not receive an appointment as such cannot fail to bring severe disappointment.

For years, I have trained to be a fence viewer. In the course of preparation, I have viewed products of the Brothers Minsky. I have viewed sunsets from a reclining desk chair. I have viewed a steak sizzling in the pan.

I have viewed with alarm. I have viewed with dismay.

But apparently all this training isn't good enough to qualify me as a fence viewer, even in the unorganized electoral district of Esquimalt. I take a dim view of this.

All I know is what I read in the papers. And this is what I read in one paper on Dec. 10: "Kiwani's Pageant played to a large and enthusiastic audience."

And this is what I read in another paper regarding the same pageant:

"Fewer than 500 people were there. Somebody goofed."

Horse races aren't the only things made by differences of opinion.

I have been trying to resist this, but unsuccessfully.

Commodore Harold Groos will arrive here shortly as head man at HMCS Naden.

Capt. David Groos, of course, is now here as head man of HMCS Venture.

This will be the first time the brothers Groos have served in the same command since the war.

The question now before the house is, will they be referred to as the Groos-some Twosome?

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Reopening of a working agreement with Victoria was sought Friday by the city's outside staff, the Civic Employees' Protective Association, Local No. 50.

City manager C. C. Wyatt said he would not know what increases in pay or other benefits the workers were seeking until a meeting is called.

Joint dinner for the Multiple Sclerosis Society and the League for the Handicapped will be held in Metropolitan United Church tonight at 6:30.

Persons wishing transportation should contact Fred Blakey at 4-1537.

Christmas seal campaign for the B.C. Tuberculosis Society reached $14,817 today in Greater Victoria.

Persons who have not received seals in the mail may contact headquarters in Room 14, 749 Broughton, 2-4422.

Silver Threads Handicraft Club will hold a Christmas carol party in the CCF Hall, Courtney Street, Tuesday, at 2 p.m.

Program of entertainment will be provided by members for their guests.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Who wrote "Hark the Herald Angels Sing?"—J.T.

A.—Charles Wesley (1707-1788), who was associated with his brother, John, in religious work. He wrote about 6,000 hymns, many of which remain favorites in Protestant churches today.

Q.—What do A.M. and P.M. mean after the hours?—L.F.

A.—A.M. is an abbreviation for ante meridiem (meridian) which means before midday, and P.M., short for post meridiem, meaning after midday.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Places to Go, Things to Do Listed for Centennial Year

A guide to more than 500 places to go and things to do in British Columbia next year was released today by the British Columbia Centennial Committee.

It lists more than 125 events planned from January to December for Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands.

The Centennial Calendar of Events is prefaced with a list of highlights of happenings across the province. It gives important dates to remember in 1958; then provides for each of five regions of British Columbia a chronological list of what is going to happen, where and when.

The calendar is being distributed throughout the world through the British Columbia Centennial Committee and Provincial Government Travel Bureau.

"It also forms part of our campaign to keep British Columbians at home next year, and is being distributed to local centennial committees and other agencies in British Columbia," Lawrie Wallace, British Columbia centennial committee chairman, said.

The calendar also is included in the Centennial Record Book, which features articles on industrial development of British Columbia and on its history.

The first run of 50,000 copies of this book has already been sold out, mainly to large industrial firms.

Mr. Wallace noted that new events are being planned, by both the provincial and local committees, all the time. "A newer and more detailed calendar will therefore be issued early in the centennial year," he said.

The list of events for Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands starts with the appearance at Victoria Jan. 20 of famous violinist Yehudi Menuhin. It ends with a Christmas dance Dec. 25 at Cedar, near Ladysmith.

In between are large-scale productions and more local events, such as special centennial celebrations, fishing derbies, curling bonspiels, drama productions, dances, dog shows and a host of others.

T-BRICKS FOR KOREA

Aged Pensioner Sends $2 for Christianity

An old-age pensioner who believes Christianity is "our only hope" sent $2 to the "T-Bricks for Korea" fund today.

But, he wrote, "real Christianity will not be very convincing while one-third of the earth's inhabitants are living in abundance and the other two-thirds are dying from want, or barely existing."

The pensioner was one of many Victorians who boosted The Times fund to $5,938 today. Friday's donations totaled $217.

Several local groups generously lent their support to the fund, including the First Centennial Boy Scout Troop, the Empire Social Club of the

Frost Tonight; New Storm Nearing Coast

Sheltered portions of Greater Victoria will feel a touch of frost tonight, weatherman William Mackie said today.

Clearing skies tonight will send the thermometer downward, he said, and a minimum of 32 degrees is expected. Maximum Sunday will be 45 degrees.

Another storm nearing the coast will bring cloud, showers and milder weather Sunday, but there will be partial clearing by late afternoon.

Winds Sunday morning will be southeasterly at 15 miles, then will veer to southwesterly at a lively 25 miles Sunday afternoon.

Sentence Lifted For Shoplifter

Ronald Nelson Deyotte, 19, Brentwood, was given a suspended sentence and placed on $300 bond for good behavior the next six months when he appeared in city police court today on a charge of stealing a $23.95 sweater from Eaton's.

Magistrate H. C. Hall suspended in consideration of Deyotte's age, and the fact that his wife is expecting a child. He ordered Deyotte abstain from all alcoholic drink.

View Royal Home Damaged by Fire

Fire caused about $500 damage to walls and ceiling of a house at 263B View Royal at 5 a.m. today.

Alarm was turned in during a wind storm, but driving rain helped keep danger to a minimum.

Property is owned by A. Fieldwalker, 263A View Royal and was occupied at the time by an unidentified tenant, who recently moved in.

Mrs. Fieldwalker praised View Royal volunteer firemen for their efficiency and promptness in dealing with the fire.

Gas Sales Vote Offer Backed Up

Petition Out Monday Asking for Referendum

About 2,000 copies of a petition will be circulated in the James Bay area Monday as a service station operator backs up his offer to give the city $1,000 for a referendum on wide-open gas and oil sales.

"The city treasurer can count on getting my cheque promptly if council agrees to the referendum," A. G. Beattie said today.

Council is expected to consider his offer Monday.

Mr. Beattie ordered printing of the petition following a statement from Mayor Percy Scurrell that he would approve a referendum if the city didn't have to pay for it.

Mr. Beattie said "about a dozen" other operators will circulate petitions in their area too as the group launches its attack on the "discriminatory" new by-law requiring service stations to stay open 24 hours a day or close at 6 p.m.

"If Mr. Beattie gets the required number of signatures on a petition for a referendum I personally would be glad to see the city accept his money and thank him for his contribution," the mayor said.

"I certainly would be influenced very much by the results of a referendum."

A referendum can be ordered by council, at the city's expense, if a petition bearing 10 per cent of the names of the current electorate—or about 2,100—requests it.

"We can get all the signatures we need and even more," Mr. Beattie said. "The city does not have to worry about my $1,000. I've got it and I'll give it to them quick."

Possible End To Pulp Strike Seen Next Week

Meeting Monday In Vancouver

Settlement of the five-week-old strike by 6,000 pulp workers, including 1,600 on Vancouver Island, may be reached next week.

Representatives from both sides are expected to meet in Vancouver Monday, for the second reopening of negotiations since the province-wide strike began Nov. 14. The first parley quickly broke down and resulted in increased picketing by the strikers.

The Vancouver talks follow private meetings with both sides by Premier W. A. C. Bennett Friday. Heavy pressure by labor and business groups have been put on the government to intervene.

However, the Monday meeting between union and management will have no government supervision.

The union struck for a 12 per cent wage increase after rejecting a majority conciliation board recommendation of 7 1/2 per cent. Nine mills, including four on the Island, were closed.

Direct losses to the industry have amounted to about $5,000, 000 in wages and about $20, 000,000 in production so far.

Pedestrian Pinned Between Truck, Pole

A hot water tank was blamed for an accident which sent Gordon Mercey, 44, 3114 Doncaster, to hospital with hip and spine injuries Friday at 4:35 p.m.

Mercey was pinned between a power pole and the back of a truck, driven by Howard F. Clunk, 3150 Davin, which reversed to reload a hot water tank which had fallen off at the intersection.

The pedestrian was standing next to the pole at the east side of a cross-walk over Hillside.

Hospital X-rays showed only slight spinal injury to Mercey and he was reported in satisfactory condition today at Jubilee.

Michael Kelly, 26, 174 Egerston, HMCS Crescent, was pulled unhurt from his wrecked car after it went out of control into a power pole guy wire, turned over and had the pole land on top of it on the old Island Highway near Admirals at 1 a.m. Friday.

Police said the car went off the far side of the highway at a curve and travelled 53 yards in a ditch before colliding with the wire.

Other motorists, David Copeman, 556 Ker and Julius Sparshu, 618 Grenville, pulled Kelly from his crushed car. Kelly was shaken up.

Memories, Notebooks and Writing Heritage of Gray Owl's Daughter

By ELIZABETH FORBES

The pungent smell of buckskins, worn smooth and soft from long wear; the faint outline of a lean, sensitive face; the stool she sat on and the bouquet of roses she held when she had her picture taken with him for the first and last time.

These are the tenuous memories of her father that Mrs. L. G. McKay, 351 Michigan Street, cherishes today.

More tangible mementoes are a thick album of pictures taken of her parents in the northern wilds and on their lecture tours, the published nature books her father wrote and eight fat notebooks filled with bits and pieces (never published) that give her a feeling of kinship with this man she hardly knew.

A man, however, who left her a proud heritage for he was that Englishman who, despite his blue eyes, made the world believe he was an Indian.

He wore Indian clothes. He lived with the Indians in his youth. He adopted their ways and for the full span of his life he fought for their rights.

Wa-Sha-Quon-Asin (Grey Owl) — "He Who Travels By Night" — they named him.

A decade ago Grey Owl's

story was familiar to every school child in Canada and to a good many parents.

Brought up in England by two strict maiden aunts, he emigrated to Canada when he was 17.

A fellow passenger on the Atlantic crossing was William Cody (Buffalo Bill) who told the impressionable youth stories of the plains and the Indians.

"Love of the wild must have been in him from the beginning," Mrs. McKay says "but this contact with Buffalo Bill brought it into the open."

In Ontario the young man joined a group of guides who taught him all they knew of woods lore. He was adopted by the Ojibway tribe of Indians and it was from them he received his name and the right to be called a Chief.

He married a beautiful young girl who was part Mohawk and together they came west to Alberta, where he accepted a position as caretaker of a provincial park and game reserve in the northern part of the province.

"It was in that park in the cabin in which they lived that my father began his study of the Canadian beaver," Mrs. McKay says quietly.

A smile touches her mobile lips as she explains—"Because my father could not be disturbed when he was studying the wild animal life and writing his stories, I was brought up by a foster mother in Prince Albert."

"My parents came to see me each time they were in the town for supplies but I did not go up to the cabin very often. Only once or twice, that I can remember."

Her brown eyes twinkle as she tells you of the beaver family at the cabin.

They had a dam with one outlet right in the corner of the Gray Owl cabin "so my father could watch them."

The patriarch of the family was Jelly Roll. "My father and Jelly Roll loved and understood each other."

Gray Owl died when Mrs. McKay was only five years old. Her mother married again and went to Calgary to live so the little Dawn (Dowand-deen in the Indian language—"Dawn of the Morning") continued to live with her foster mother in Prince Albert.

The business of going to school and then of earning a living occupied much of her time, but she never forgot the tall man in buckskins.

LOVE OF OUTDOORS

And in her teens a love of the outdoors, inherited from both her parents, grew and blossomed.

"I began to go into the northern woods myself," she says, "and I found that, although I had been brought up a city girl, like my parents I could be happy alone in the wilderness."

It was then that she began to delve deeper into the bulky notebooks that recorded Gray Owl's thoughts and his beliefs.

"He was a gifted man," she says proudly, "he could not have written the way he did otherwise."

Marriage (her husband is in the Canadian navy) and the birth of her two children, Glaze Stanfield, 3, and Sandra, 2, put the notebooks in the background for a few years.

"But now, with the children growing, I have more leisure again."

"The story of my father's life is rooted deep in the Canadian northland. It has the song of the beaver and the story of the Canadian Indian woven into it."

"I would like to see that story recorded in some way for all the world to read and to know."

Bride Wears Pink Chiffon Velvet For Vows in St. George the Martyr

Exquisite shell pink chiffon

velvet created a wedding gown for Barbara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Rennie, when she entered the Church of St. George the Martyr, this afternoon, to become the bride of Sub-Lieut. Richard T. Wilson, HMCS Skeena, son of Mrs. M. H. Wilson, Thornhill, Ont.

Skirt of the especially-designed bridal gown swept in regal fullness to a graceful train. Fitted bodice was of low torso design. A circular chapel veil bordered with lace was held in place by a Juliet cap of matching velvet and a single green orchid topped the bride's prayer book. For "something old," she carried an heirloom handkerchief of Italian lace.

Identical floor-length gowns of forest green velvet were worn by attendants, Mrs. J. Harwood, matron of honor; Mrs. W. Thomas, bridesmatron, and Miss Joan Rennie, sister of the bride, bridesmaid. They wore matching draped hats and carried cascade bouquets of pale pink and white chrysanthemums.

Marion Smith, flower girl, wore a similar frock with matching hat and carried a miniature bouquet.

Sub-Lieut. E. Sande was best man and Lieut. W. Thomas, Lieut. R. Fortin, Lieut. G. Van Sickle and Lieut. J. Buchan were ushers.

Baskets of pastel pink chrysanthemums decorated the church for the service, conducted by Rev. William Hills. Organist was Malcolm Hamilton. Congregation sang the processional, "Praise My Soul, the King of Heaven."

For receiving guests at a reception in Old Charming Inn, mother of the bride wore a midnight blue brocade ensemble with pink brocade hat. Mother of the groom chose a bottle-green lace ensemble with matching hat trimmed with flat green and red flowers.

Toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. G. Douglas Kendall, uncle of the bride. The newlyweds used the groom's sword to cut a three-tier wedding cake which was surrounded by pale pink roses.

For "going away," the bride donned a teal blue cashmere and wool ensemble with matching hat and brown accessories. Sub-Lieut. and Mrs. Wilson will live in Victoria.

Red Holly, White Chrysanthemums Setting for Pre-Christmas Vows

Full-berried holly and white chrysanthemums decorated St. John's Anglican Church for one of the first weddings of the Christmas season today.

bride of Sub-Lt. Kenneth Sinclair Foster, HMCS Cayuga, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John R. Foster, Indian Head, Sask., in a service conducted by Canon George Biddle.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride was a lovely picture in her full-length gown of heavy taffeta brocade styled on princess lines with back fullness sweeping into a chapel train. Round neckline of her gown dipped to a V at back. Her fingertip veil of illusion tulle was held by a crown of fresh white rosebuds and she carried an all-white cascade bouquet of gardenias, rosebuds and feathered carnations, with a few strands of ivy. Her only jewelry was her mother's string of pearls.

SCARLET GOWNS

A quartet of attendants wearing gowns of scarlet peau d'amon preceded the bride up the aisle. Gowns were styled on princess lines with back fullness and round necklines dipping to V's at back. They wore long white gloves, white feathered bandeaux and carried bouquets of feathered white chrysanthemums centred with holly berries and surrounded by holly leaves.

Maid of honor was Miss Michie Cox and bridesmaids were Miss Elizabeth Harrison, who designed and made all the gowns, Miss Alix Husband and Miss San Smith.

Flower girl, Miss Maureen Luney, niece of the bride, wore a short, white-dotted Swiss organdy dress with full, gathered skirt and sash of red peau d'amon. She carried a basket of flowers to match the bridesmaids' bouquets.

NADEN RECEPTION

Reception was held at the wardroom, HMCS Naden which was decorated with white chrysanthemums and holly with tall candelabra. Charles Cox proposed the toast to the bride and the newlyweds cut a four-tier wedding cake topped with tiny rosebuds.

For travelling on honeymoon to Harrison Hot Springs, the new Mrs. Foster wore a beige wool dress with chocolate brown accessories and brown fur jacket. She wore a beige hat and corsage of gardenias and Talisman rosebuds.

Greater Responsibilities Coming For Women Says Mrs. Fairclough

TORONTO (CP)—Secretary of State Ellen Fairclough Thursday predicted the next 10 years will see "great changes in the acceptance of women in responsible posts."

Canada's first woman federal cabinet minister told the Empire Club's "ladies day" luncheon most of Canada already has adopted equal pay for equal work legislation. But the principle of equal opportunity for women had not yet generally been accepted.

"It is my opinion that women themselves must show their willingness to accept responsibility to a greater degree than they have done heretofore."

Some women had hesitated to offer themselves for election to provincial legislatures or the House of Commons because of the distance they must travel to discharge their duties. But about 1,200 women now served on municipal governments. More were contributing through non-elective posts and voluntary work in local, national and international organizations.

Reasons often given for not admitting women to certain groups included the plea that men sometimes talked in "rather rich language" and that women tended to monopolize conversations.

Speaking from 12 years' experience in elective posts—often as the lone woman in a group of men who "pulled no punches"—Mrs. Fairclough assured her audience "... in that whole period I never learned one new word."

She made a crisp "no comment" to the second allegation. The statements were included in a text of the speech issued to the press before delivery.

Johnston-Bailey Wedding Vows Spoken in Nanaimo

Baskets of white and yellow chrysanthemums decorated St. Andrew's United Church at Nanaimo for the marriage of Mary Marguerite Victoria (Maurine), only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Johnston, Nanaimo, to Piers Vernon Ross Bailey, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bailey, Victoria. Rev. Wm. Van Druten officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina-length gown of white silk taffeta with crinoline skirt and fitted bodice of French lace topped by a French lace bolero with stand-up collar and three-quarter-length sleeves. Bridal headpiece was of net trimmed with brilliants from which hung a chapel-length veil.

She carried a white orchid on a white ribbon.

Only attendant, Mrs. John S. C. Johnston, matron of honor, wore a turquoise gown styled with silk taffeta skirt and a bodice of shimmering chiffon. She had a matching headpiece with veil trim, and carried a bouquet of yellow feathered chrysanthemums.

Best man was Jack Utting, Seattle, and the ushers were Wolfgang Thiersch and Roger Bailey, both of Vancouver.

During the signing of the register Dr. Douglas Kirkbride sang "O Perfect Love." Mrs. Mary Newbury was organist.

A reception was held at the golf club. For receiving the guests the mother of the bride wore a blue wool crepe gown with lace bodice, dark blue and pink accessories, while the groom's mother wore a rose beige lace sheath with rose accessories. William Cochran gave the blessing before the supper. John S. C. Johnston, brother of the bride, introduced MAYERTHORPE, Alta. (CP)—Two B.C. men were seriously injured when their truck plunged off the highway 50 miles west of Edmonton.

Admitted to hospital here were John M. Bolster and Aloysius Lachmuth, both of Fort St. John, B.C.

Quads Born in U.K. 'Largest'

LONDON (AP)—A husky set of quadruplets, two boys and two girls, was born to the wife of a dock laborer today in a caesarian section.

A hospital spokesman said the babies born to Mrs. Mary Bennett, 37, may be the largest quads in British medical annals.

All four babies and the mother were reported doing well. They were about one week premature.

New Russian Deputy Premier

LONDON (Reuters)—The Praesidium of the Supreme Soviet today appointed a new deputy premier and replaced four central ministries with state committees. The Soviet news agency Tass said Dmitri Ustinov has been appointed deputy premier.

U.K. Probes Scientist's Death

BASINGSTOKE, Eng. (Reuters)—A public inquest will be held into the death of a scientist from burns he received in a fire Wednesday at Britain's atomic research establishment. It was announced today.

Earlier reports had said that owing to the man's highly-secret work the inquest might be held in private.

300 Children Safe in Blaze

OTTAWA (CP)—An explosion today started a fire in the Ottawa Auditorium while 300 schoolchildren were holding hockey practice. All were evacuated safely.

Early Merger Action Sought by Reeve Ash

Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash today called for a meeting next month between the municipality and the city to work out a common approach before requesting the provincial government to set up a royal commission on amalgamation.

"It is my hope and desire that a meeting will take place early in the new year between Mayor Percy Scourrah and myself along with representatives of both councils to discuss ways and means of taking immediate action in approaching the government," Reeve Ash, re-elected to a two-year term Thursday, said.

"We should ask the provincial government's co-operation to inaugurate an investigation as soon as possible that would result in a plan being formulated which could be placed before the ratepayers."

Reeve Ash said many problems were awaiting solution in Saanich that could not be tackled until the amalgamation question was settled.

"We can't make these policy decisions until the people tell us what they want done about amalgamation."

EISENHOWER SAYS IN PARIS

NATO READY TO MEET RUSSIAN CHALLENGE

Stronger Bonds Aim --John D.

PARIS (CP)—Canadian Prime Minister Diefenbaker arrived here today for next week's NATO summit conference and said he expects the meeting to "strengthen the bonds of the Allies."

He told airport reporters, "I think there will be a redeclaration of principles in NATO's cultural, political, economic and military fields. Otherwise freedom will not survive."

Diefenbaker, who flew here from Ottawa for his first NATO conference, said he had an excellent trip, adding "I slept all the way."

With External Affairs Minister Smith and Gen. Charles Foulkes, chairman of the Canadian chiefs of staff, already in Paris, the Canadian delegation will be completed Monday with the arrival of Finance Minister Donald Fleming, who delayed his departure to steer his tax legislation through the Commons.

Diefenbaker was met by Smith, Jean Desy, Canadian ambassador to France; L. D. Wilgress, Canada's representative to NATO, and George Drew, Canadian high commissioner in London.

Diefenbaker said this is the first time he has been in France since becoming prime minister and he considers it a privilege to be back in "this beautiful country, this heroic country, this culture country—one of our two motherlands."

RELATIONS STRONGER

Diefenbaker drove straight to the Canadian ambassador's residence. Canadian officials said he will confer Sunday with Prime Minister Macmillan.

Speaking before microphones at the airport, the Canadian leader said:

"I am happy to acknowledge the warm reception today from the representatives of the Republic of France and to assure them that our relations will ever continue to be stronger as the years go by."

The prime minister was accompanied on the RCAF C-5 flight from the Canadian capital by Defence Minister G. R. Pearkes. His external affairs minister arrived Friday.

Penalty Goal Gives Leaders Soccer Win

LONDON (Reuters)—Wolverhampton Wanderers today stretched their lead in the First Division of the English Soccer League to six points with a come-from-behind 4-3 victory over lowly Sheffield Wednesday.

A penalty goal by Edwin Clamp late in the game broke a 3-3 tie and gave the Wanderers their 10th victory in 11 home games this season. The other home game ended in a draw.

Second-place West Bromwich Albion had its chances of overtaking Wolverhampton dimmed when it was whipped 5-1 by Luton Town. Defending champion Manchester United also bowed 1-0 to Chelsea.

Britain's Princess Margaret makes a pretty picture as she flashes a warm smile against background of a cold December day in London. The 27-year-old Princess wears a mink coat and matching hat in wintry weather. Princess Margaret will visit B.C. next year for the centennial celebrations.

Old Fashioned Variety To Boost T-Brick Fund

By DINAH KERR

Keynote of the "T-Bricks for Korea" benefit show at the Odeon Theatre Sunday night will be variety—with a capital "V."

Where else would one find emcee Hans Gruber, conductor of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, rubbing elbows with a jazz quartet, or concert tenor Del Rogers appearing on a program between Highland dancer Heather Duncan and "The Lassie from Lancashire" Irene Henderson?

What other show gives you Jerry Gosley and Len Evans in a comedy routine, "A Lesson in Golf," two acts before Moyra Mulholland reads from the works of Charles Dickens?

The show, arranged by Smile Show's Jerry Gosley, starts at 9 p.m.

Here is the full program: Christmas overture—Reginald Stone at the Hammond organ.

"The Matador"—Irene Henderson and accordionist Al Denoni.

Comic imitations—Len Carlson, radio and TV entertainer.

The Nite Hawks—three-guitar harmony with Ron Jenkins, Tom Craycroft and Norm Winguit.

"A Lesson in Golf"—Jerry Gosley and Len Evans.

More songs—Irene Henderson, Magic and Mystery—Carl and Lottie Hejnone.

Smile Show gang in "Lose My Job"—Len Evans, Irene Henderson, Jerry Gosley, Carol Vernon and Al Denoni.

The theatre will be provided free of charge by Jack Armstrong, manager. Staff members are donating their time, along with all artists.

Summit Parley Opens Monday

PARIS (CP)—President Eisenhower declared today that the NATO alliance can meet the "despotic and continuing threat" of Soviet Russia.

Arriving for the summit NATO meeting opening Monday, he told a thin airport crowd of 200 persons the West must meet Russia's space-age challenge or lose its freedom.

After a welcome to France from President Rene Coty and Premier Felix Gaillard, Eisenhower made the keynote statement of his Paris mission. Speaking on the cold, windswept Orly Field, Eisenhower said:

"Today we live in one of those periods of test not only for France but all of France's friends and allies, my country among them. It is for us, together, to determine whether men shall continue to live in freedom and in dignity or whether they are to become mere vassals of an all-powerful state."

The answer to this challenge, he said, is the development of a "true partnership" in "spiritual, military and economic strength."

He predicted that they would not only strengthen their protective shield of NATO military forces but also reinforce other aspects of the coalition as well. An estimated 5,000 French police turned out to guard Eisenhower during his arrival.

The police guarded the airport and the crowd-lined route to the U.S. embassy where Eisenhower was to stay. Continued on Page 30

MAC ARRIVES FOR PARLEY

PARIS (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan arrived by night ferry train from London today and said that the NATO summit conference will increase "the faith and power" of the Allies in the modern world.

The statement was Eisenhower's first public speech since his slight stroke Nov. 25.

In his prepared speech, Eisenhower expressed confidence that the 15-nation alliance could meet the "despotic and continuing threat from the East" in an effective manner.

OKAY BUT AGED

Words Slurred By Eisenhower

PARIS (UP)—President Eisenhower stumbled at least twice during his arrival speech today and observers who last saw him here five years ago commented openly at the way he has aged.

But the slurring of several words and a more moderate than usual walking pace were the only signs that might have reflected the United States president's recent illness—an illness that almost prevented his attendance at next week's crucial meeting of NATO countries.

Eisenhower kept his hat on and donned glasses to read his speech. But, aside from slight stumbling over occasional words, there was nothing that indicated a sick man. His voice was firm, vigorous and resonant and he read rapidly and without hesitation.

PARIS (AP)—Shortly after President Eisenhower reached the U.S. embassy in downtown Paris today presidential physician Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder sent word to reporters that Eisenhower stood his transatlantic plane trip well and is "in very good condition."

Nine Killed as Blast Rips Scottish Mine

KELTY, Scotland (AP)—An underground explosion today at the Lindsay Colliery about 15 miles north of Edinburgh killed nine men and injured seven others.

Several of the injured miners were able to walk unaided out of the pit. Rescue workers reported that the men who were killed were working at the coal face.

Cause of the explosion was not known.

It was the third pit disaster in Scotland in a month.

Seventeen miners were killed Nov. 20 in an explosion at a coal mine in Muirkirk, Scotland. A week later, another explosion occurred at a coal mine in Maryport, England, killing two men.

Dave Beck Convicted

SEATTLE (AP)—Dave Beck, millionaire president of the teamsters, was convicted today by a jury of seven men and five housewives of stealing $1,900 from the sale of a union-owned automobile.

A motion for retrial was filed shortly after the verdict was delivered. The motion was filed by Beck's attorney, but the grounds were not known immediately.

Finding of Hidden Mike Snarls Subway Parley

WHAT'S YOUR OPINION?

By JOHN MIKA and IRVING STRICKLAND

Question: "Vancouver voters endorsed Sunday sport by a two-to-one margin. Do you favor Sunday sport, with paid admissions to events, for Victoria?"

Chuck Watson, 8 Camden: "Why not? It's the only day that most people have time to take in any sports. I think Vancouver took an excellent step in voting that way and I hope we get a chance to do the same very soon."

Watson Andre

Marne Andre, 620 Rupert: "I certainly don't disagree with the Vancouver voters. They did the right thing so far as I'm concerned and it's about time we had it here. After all, they've had sports on Sunday in the United States for years and I don't see why we shouldn't have it, too. It hasn't done any harm there; people still go to church."

Donald McLellan, 1303 Gladstone: "Definitely we should have the same thing. It would give people something to do on Sunday afternoons beside just sitting at home and watching television. We need entertainment and relaxation on a day off. I'm glad to see the Vancouver people are out to get Sunday sports and I think it's about time we had it, too."

Novelist Sick

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—Novelist Nicholas Monsarrat, author of "The Cruel Sea," left Australia for Canada today to undergo a minor operation.

McLellan Ryall

Suzanne Ryall, McBride, B.C.: "I think everyone should be able to take in a ball game on Sundays. There certainly doesn't seem much to do in Victoria on about the only day of the week when people have the time to watch a game."

Bill Blandford, YMCA: "I'm all for an open Sunday—sports, entertainment and cocktail bars. It's too dead on Sundays the way it is now. There just isn't any way to enjoy yourself and I think a fellow has the right to some pleasure after working all through the week."

Blandford Dalziel

Beverly Dalziel, Vancouver: "Good for Vancouver. If teams can play sports now without taking admissions, then why can't they do the same thing when tickets are sold? I don't see these arguments that sports are degrading just because it's Sunday. Now that I'm here, I'd like to see Victoria do the same as Vancouver."

CHOICE ESTATE ON MARS PUT ASIDE FOR NASSER

TOKYO (Reuters)—A spokesman for the Japanese Astronautical Society said today President Nasser of Egypt had inquired about an estate on Mars through the Japan External Recovery Organization's office in Cairo. Toraji Kishida, whose society has been selling land on Mars, said the deed to a choice lot of land of about 80 acres on Mars was posted today to the Egyptian leader.

87 Died of Fumes Paris Probe Told

PARIS (Reuters)—A special commission has reported that 87 Moslems died of asphyxiation in Algeria while being held in wine stores for questioning by French security forces, the government disclosed Friday night.

The government made public a report by the commission set up to investigate alleged excesses by security forces in the three-year Algerian war.

The report cited three cases this year where suspected insurgents were imprisoned in wine stores and several died of carbonic acid gas poisoning. Fifty died in one store, 21 in another, and 16 in a third, the report said.

Lieutenant-Governor Plans Jan. 1 Reception in Armory

Lieut-Governor Frank Ross will hold his customary New Year's Day reception of local residents in the Bay Street Armory between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

The reception will be held there pending the re-building of Government House, destroyed by fire last March.

A statement issued by his staff reads:

"The lieutenant-governor is anxious that custom and tradition should be perpetuated and until the new Government House is available he has decided to hold the New Year's Day reception in the Bay Street Armory."

Mayor Percy Scurrell and members of his council will hold their usual New Year's reception at the City Hall, but the time has not yet been set.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele and his council will entertain at Esquimalt Municipal Hall from 2 to 4 p.m. New Year's Day.

Traditional New Year's receptions are planned by the various armed services and militia. Details to be announced later.

Reception of the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. in the officers' mess at Work Point Barracks.

Fifth Medium Battery will receive in the officers' mess at Bay Street Armory from 9 to 10 a.m. Canadian Scottish Regiment is planning a New Year's reception at the Armory.

More playing cards are made in Cincinnati, Ohio, than in any other place in the world.

150 HOUSES FOR SALE

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST
MONDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1957

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—Partners, co-workers have the key to your more rapid success today, and it would be great wisdom to talk to as many of them as possible, discuss mutual ideas and plans. P.M. fine for looking into the matters of finance.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—It is possible to labor with real vim and vigor now on whatever is of immediate importance, and your partners, co-workers are in a mood to assist and co-operate nicely. Tonight, untrifling feathery associates.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Make it your business today to let your comrades know how much you appreciate and admire them. In spare hours, get your charm at its peak with expert help, and then tonight be with dearest friends, have a glorious time.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—Spend some time at home in a.m. getting the place to look like perfection itself, and make things happy by ordering candy, etc. Then get out into the places of good atmosphere out of doors. Lunch at that swanky restaurant.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Be an early bird this morning and corner all those persons who have it in their power to recognize your great ideas and help you put them in motion. Get ball rolling. Many will be in a receptive mood.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Commence this new week ahead by planning your time, scheduling appointments exactly, money proportioned properly and begin a new uptrend. Get great respect of others, be more successful. P.M. enjoy your comrades.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Since you wisely spent a leisurely weekend, your energies and personality are wonderful, and this is the day to contact all those with whom you want to make contracts, etc. Be very active and succeed now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Conferences and discussions with whoever can extend the data you need are excellent today. It would be wise to make a descriptive outline of exact position each individual occupies in your life, also in personal matters.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Friends, promoters of vision, relatives, financiers—all are conscious now of the merit of your ideas and very eager to give as much support as you require, or be associated with you. Get down to business immediately.

CAPRICORN Dec. 22 to Jan. 20—A day to contact the greatest expert in government, tax, commerce offices to gain that invaluable advice that will put you on the right track to a swift and inspiring success in the field that most interests you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Read your paper, other periodicals, or go to listen to fine lectures, do research work in library, etc., today—anything that will add materially to your present knowledge and give you greatest inkling toward real abundance.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—There is no point in dashing about seeking advice of others, when you yourself know the real answer to present situation. Put remedy in motion, then look after important money matters, and tonight have a ball with dearest.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN MONDAY...

The greatest number of children born Monday will be born of persons in highest financial brackets. So, it is your duty to early teach that many changes may occur in life, also that money is mainly put to best use for the happiness of others, the solace it can bring. So, give a practical education, though it be in artistic or charm fields, and a good grounding in philosophy will make your progeny a happy, fine adult.
